INTRODUCTION

The Hull Family in America has three main divisions: George Hull and his descendants; his brother, the Reverend Joseph Hull and his descendants; and Richard Hull and his descendants. George and Joseph were sons of Thomas and Joane Peson Hull, of Somersetshire, England, the earliest known ancestors of the tribe. George was about five years older than Joseph and came to this country five years earlier, in 1630. The relationship of Richard Hull to them, if there is any, is not known. He was a native of Derbyshire, England, and although four years younger than Joseph Hull came to this country before Joseph did, but the exact date of his arrival is not known. There is also a branch of New Hampshire Hulls, so called, whose relationship to any of the three main branches has not been discovered. What could be learned about them by the efforts of Mr. William G. Hull, of Plymouth, N. H., has been included in the present volume.

The names listed in the dark type are those that appear later with biographical sketches. The numbers that head the biographical sketches are the same as those given to the names when they first appear. All names appearing in the book may be found in the index except those of people who died when under fifteen years of age. The names of people marrying members of the Hull family may be found in the index with the numbers of their consorts.

THE GEORGE HULL BRANCH

Descendants of George Hull

1. GEORGE HULL, 1590-1659, surveyor, Indian trader, magistrate, statesman and founder of a prominent branch of the Hull family in America, the son of Thomas and Joane Peson Hull, of Crewkerne, Somersetshire, England. On August 17, 1614, as shown by the original parish records of the ancient church at Crewkerne village, he was married to Thamzen (Thomasene) Michell, daughter of Robert Michell, a well-to-do yeoman of Stockland, in the adjoining shire of Dorset. Stockland is about six miles distant from the village of Crewkerne, at or near which the ancestral home of the Hulls was situated, and it was probably included within the bounds of Crewkerne parish. The parish records of Winsham, Somersetshire, an adjoining parish to Crewkerne, contained the following entry.

Baptizati, Novembris 6to die, Gulielmus Hull, filius Thomas Hull, Joannes Higinus, Vicarius Winsamiae.

Crewkerne is three miles north of its hamlet, Clapton, and is in western Somerset, the river Ax dividing the parish from Dorsetshire at the northwestern extremity of that county. The parish comprises an area of 6,183 acres.

It is a very ancient town known in the Saxon time as Cruserne, a name composed of the words "Cruse," a cross, and "Carne," a cottage. There is no doubt that this name was applied in the early ages of Christianity when churches were rare and hermitages or cells the usual place of religious association.

The part played by Crewkerne in the civil wars between the King and Parliament in the 17th century, if not conspicuous as that of many other places, was neither unexciting nor devoid of danger. The town was frequently occupied by troops of the contending parties, and Hinton St. George, in the immediate vicinity of Crewkerne, was the quarters of Lord Poulett, who greatly distinguished himself in the King's cause and early held an important command in the Royal Army.

Y SU Somerset Pub. Lib. V. 6, 19

The great ornament of Crewkerne is undoubtedly its beautiful church, which is slightly elevated above the body of the town on its western edge. It is dedicated to St. Bartholomew, and a fair or wake is still held near the anniversary of that saint, viz.: on September 4th, the anniversary itself being on August 24th.

The church is built in the style for which Somerset is celebrated, that of perpendicular or latest form of Gothic, while upon the whole it may be considered as belonging to the local style of the district. It is by no means wanting in peculiarities of its own. It was probably erected on the site of a more ancient structure during the latter half of the 15th century. Crewkerne church is a large cruciform building, with a central tower. There are aisles to the nave, but the choir has no regular aisles. There is, however, a remarkable arrangement of the chapel between the tower and the north transept. The total length of the church is 122 feet, and the width of the transept 102 feet. The west front is pronounced one of the finest belonging to any parish church in England.

William and Joseph Hull, the oldest and youngest of the brothers of George Hull, were graduates of St. Mary's Hall, Oxford, and ministers of the Church of England. William, who was vicar of Colyton in Devonshire, died childless in 1627, leaving a will, in which he names his brothers George, John, and Joseph, also Marie (Mary), daughter of his brother George, and Johanna, daughter of his brother Joseph.

George Hull was about forty years of age when he left England, and so far as is known, land surveying was not only his profession but his principal avocation while he remained there.

On March 30th, 1629-30, he sailed from Plymouth, England, with a noted company of adventurers which included Ludlow, Mason, Underhill, Southcote, Maverick and Warham, all of whom became men of marked prominence in either the civil, military or ecclesiastical affairs of New England. The record of baptism of his son Joshua at Crewkerne, seven and a half months after his departure suggests the probability that he sailed unaccompanied by his family and at a late date after he had "spied out the land," he either returned for or was joined by them.

No record of place or date of death of Thomasene Michell Hull has been discovered, but that she died previous to 1655 is shown by the recorded fact that about that date George Hull was married to Sarah, widow of David Phipin, Esq., of Boston.

As previously stated George Hull came to New England in 1629-30. After spending a short time in Boston, he with other colonists settled the town of Dorchester, the records of which show that he was a prominent member of its first board of selectmen, and its representative in the first general court of Massachusetts Bay Colony held May 14, 1634.

In 1636 he moved to Windsor, Conn., of which and the adjoining town of Wethersfield, he made official surveys, receiving in compensation for his service, awards of choice town lots. The records of Windsor contain divers records showing that he was one of the "first comers" and prominent grantees of that town, which he was chosen to represent in the general court of Connecticut. Hurd, in his history of Fairfield, says:—

> "George Hull was the personal friend and political adherent of Governor Roger Ludlow. He came from England in the same ship, with him and his brother John and Humphrie Pinney, who afterwards married his daughter, Marie (Mary) at Dorchester, moved with him to Windsor, Connecticut, and jointly with him obtained from the general court of 1638, a monopoly of the beaver trade on the Connecticut river. When Ludlow moved to Fairfield, George Hull soon followed him, and was selected by the general court as his assistant; and in 1651, 1653, and 1654 he was appointed by the governor as associate magistrate for the towns by the seaside. . . . He was public spirited, active and intelligent, and as a legislator and magistrate was instrumental in establishing two of the enlightened commonwealths of New England—Massachusetts and Connecticut. Cotten Mather distinguishes him with a place in his great book, and places his brother Joseph in his First Classis or List of First Good Men. Mr. Trumbull, the historian of Connecticut, groups him with those whose names are worthy of perpetuation, and Mr. Stiles, in his history of Windsor tells us that he was a citizen of worth and distinction."

His will reads as follows:—

I George Hull, being feeble in body, yet of good and perfect mind, do now ordain this my last Will and Testament as followeth:

Imprimus—I give and bequeath unto my loving wife the third part of my estate, yf shee relinquish the twenty pounds which I promised her yf I died before her.

Item—I give and bequeath unto by son Josias Hull another third part of my estate.

Item—I give and bequeath unto my son Cornelius Hull, one little feather bed now in Boston.

Item—I give and bequeath also unto Cornelius Hull forty shillings to be paid out of the third of my estate.

Item—I give unto my cousin Jane Pinkney twenty shillings.

Item—I doe by these presents ordayn, constitute and make my son Josias Hull and Sarah, my loving wife, the executors of this my last Will and Testament.

The second day of November, 1659.

This inventory was attested by Cornelius Hull to be true inventory of is Father Hull his Estate to the best of his knowledge.

Before me,

NATHAN GOLD.

Widow Sarah Hull, in her will dated Aug. 12, 1659, does not mention any of her step-children, but divides her estate, which includes a dwelling house in Boston, among her children by her former husband, David Phipsen, (viz.: Benjamin, Joseph, ~~Gambrell~~, George, Sarah and Rebecca Phipsen), and her cousin Jane Pinkney. By the same instrument she names Philip Pinkney overseer of her estate at Fairfield.

George Hull and his first wife Thamsen Michell were the parents of seven children, six of whom were born in Crewkerne, England, and whose names and dates the baptismal records of the church parish contain.

3. JOSIAH (Josias) HULL, of Killingworth. He was the eldest son of George, and was baptized at Crewkerne, Somersetshire, England, November 10th, 1616. He sailed from Plymouth with his parents March 30, 1629-1630, in the ship "Mary and John," and first settled at Dorchester, Mass. In the same ship came Humphrey Pinney, who afterwards married his sister Mary at Dorchester. He with his father and brother-in-law removed to Windsor in 1637, and we find them there as owners of adjoining lands. We learn from the Connecticut Colonial Records that he with Richard ————, was defendant in a law-suit in 1645; was a member of the Grand Jury July 16, 1660. We find his name in the list of those who paid 6 shillings for seating in the Meeting House, July 18, 1659. He was among those of the Dragoons that had received powder of Thomas Dibble. After his removal to Killingworth, he sold his seat in the Meeting House March 7, 1664, to Nathaniel Bissell. On May 20, 1640, he married at Windsor, Elizabeth, daughter of Joseph Loomis and his wife, Mary White. In 1643-44, he removed to Killingworth, Conn., where he was chosen first Town Recorder October 2, 1665, and was Lieutenant of Train Band in 1666. He was Deputy to the General Court 1659, 1660, 1662, 1667, and 1674. He died at Killingworth Nov. 16, 1675, leaving eleven children.

Killingworth was originally bounded on the south by Long Island Sound, on the west by Guilford, east by Saybrook, and north by the wilderness. Killingworth was originally a piece of ground "left out" as not worth settling.

The present Clinton was the original Killingworth, and Main Street was the identical ground where they took their home lots. These were surveyed in 1663, and alloted to them by "drawing cuts." Lot p. 36 Town Records allotted to Josiah Hull, Sr., was on the North side of Main Street, west of Indian River.

The following line of descent, from Mary Hull Pinney, is given in 1904 Lineage book of the National Society of Colonial Wars:

I. Humphrey Pinney, ——1683; m. Mary Hull, 1618-1684.
II. Isaac Pinney, 1663-1709; sergeant in Queen Ann's war, 1709.
III. Isaac Pinney, June, 1686-1717; m. Abigail Filley, 1685-1761.
IV. Isaac Pinney, 3d., 1716-1791; m. Susanna Phelps, 1731-1795.
V. Sarah Pinney, 1756-1805; m. Josiah Edson, 1758-1819.
VI. Joseph Edson, 1782-1832; m. Sarah Throop, 1783-1863.
VII. Sarah Edson, 1806-1851; m. Edward Weston, 1799-1870.
VIII. Mary E. Weston, 1839——; m. Howard Butler VanDyke, 1840——.
IX. Harry Watson VanDyke, b. Apr. 11, 1872.

It was resolved by the General Court in October, 1665, that Hammonascet should be a Town. The same month 12 planters principally from Hartford, Windsor, and Guilford fixed their residences there. It was afterwards called Killingworth. The name originally designated was Kennelworth, and thus it was written for some years on the records of the Colony, but by mistake was recorded Killingworth, and this name finally prevailed. Trumbull's History of Connecticut, Vol I., p. 261.

In March, 1663, the General Court appointed William Wadsworth, Sen., ——— Avery, and Lieut. Smith a committee to view the lands at Hommonascitt, and if they judge be not fit for a plantation, and will not be very prejudicall to Saybrook, then they are to lay it out to Mr. Math Allen, Capt. Tallcott, John Allyn and Mr. Willis, according to the grant of the Court. . . . . The Committee appointed to view Hommonascett returned a writing under their hands dated June 3, 1663, wherein they expressed that "according to their best judgement it will make a comfortable plantation for the entertainment of thirty families to subsist comfortably."

The following is from the town records, Vol. I., p. 238: "The determination and conclusion of the Committee chosen by the General Assembly for the ordering of the settling of Hommonascitt, October, 1663. The binding articles concluded on by the Committee were as follows:

1. That none put in above a Hundred Pound estate for the division of land.

2. That every man's Proportion be laid out by lot.

3. That every one that puts his name for a Planter Remove himself and Family and settle within two years from this time or else to forfeit his land to the Company or Plantation.

4. That every family so Removed and Settled abide for four years after the first two years have expired or else to lose their land, Receiving only the equitable expense.

5. If any Magistrate Remove thither he is to attend the same manner as the rest, provided that he is to have some addition of land beyond his proportion in consideration of his place, as the Company shall think meet.

6. That there be a convenient allotment Reserved for the minister forever.

7. That they shall settle an Able, Orthodox and Godly Minister free from scandal with the advice of the major part of the Magistrates of Connecticut.

8. That none shall have an allotment for a greater estate than he carried to the place.

9. That there shall be thirty families on the east side of Hommonasset at the least.

"Entered as planters by the Committee: Bryan Rossiter, Josias Hull, Sen., Jonas Westover, William Huydon, Edward Griswold, William Kelcey, William Barber, John Mugs, Sen., Samuel Buell, William Wellman.

"And that there be a liberty for two or three of Stratford, and also Mr. Matthew Allyn is to have a liberty according to the articles, & so much it is left to the major part of those admitted to entertain the rest of number agreed upon, which is to be at least thirty families in all.

"All subscribed unto by the Committee: Samuel Willys, Henry Wolcott, Willin Wadsworth. (p. 238.)

The following "allotment of the several inhabitants of Hammonascitt," is from page 1 of the Town Records of Killingworth.

"Thomas Smith, William Barber, Henry Farnam, William Wellman, George Chatfield, Thomas Stevens, Edward Griswold, William Huyton, Samuel Buell, John Kelcey, Robert Williams, granted, John Nuthton, granted, ——— Turney, purchase John Rositer, by agreement, John Miggs, granted John Shether, purchase of Jonathan Dunnin, George Sanders, granted William Stevens, Josiah Hull, Senr., Eliezer Isbel, granted, Isaac Griswold, purchase Jonathan Dunnin."

In 1669 the following list of freemen of the "Town of Killingworth" is recorded: Mr. John Woodbridge, Mr. Edward Griswold, Josiah Hull, John Wilcockson, Samuel Buell, Jonas Westover, Eliazer Isbel, William Stevens, Nathaniel Parmerly, William Barber, John Miggs, Sr., Andrew Wards, William Kulsey, William Wellman, George Chatfield, Thomas Stevens, John Kielsey, John Muggs, Jr., Josiah Hull, John Rosseter, townsmen; George Chatfield, constable.

The actual first settlers were 21 in number. The act of the General Court required thirty families to settle before an act of incorporation could be granted them. They gradually increased until 1685, when the General Court incorporated them or granted them a "patent."

In 1703 a new patent was granted to the inhabitants of Killingworth by the General Assembly. The inhabitants also purchased the Indian title from Uncas, Sachem of the Mohegans. One deed is dated January 13, 1663, the other November 26, 1669.

The following from the Town records may prove of interest.

February 15, 1664—It is ordered that the first Minister that is called and settled in office amongst us shall have the lot that lies betwixt the home lot of Bryan Rossiter and the Highway that goes down to the Landing place and four acres and land at Neck of the Divisions as they are Recorded in the Records of Land—own and property as a Planter and as other Planters have.

October 2nd, 1665—Josias Hull is Voted and Chosen to be Town Recorder for the year ensuing.

September 28, 1666—The town bargained and agreed with Nathan Parmele for forty shillings per year to beat the Drum Sabbath Days for the Calling of the People together—and at the Town Meetings and Training Days, Provided he be chosen by the Company to be their Drummer and to maintain the Drum at his own cost. Vol. I., p. 242. Vol. I., p. 274.

February ye 12th, 1671—It was ordered and voted by the Town that if any man should wholly absent himself from any Town Meetings, having had sufficient warning at least 24 hours before, Shall pay twelve pence, and if any Man Comes late after the time appointed, shall pay six pence, unless they make it appear they have had urgent occasion to hinder them and are to be made Debtor to the Town and to be added to the next Town Rate; and if seven of the Town Meets together at the time appointed, it shall be accounted a lawful Town Meeting. Vol. I., p. 276.

At a Town Meeting, March 29th, 1675-6—It was Voted and Agreed upon that there shall be two common fortifications made in the Town for places of Defence, and it was also stated and agreed upon that those places for fortifications shall be at Mr. Woodbridge's and at Andrew Ward's—further it was also Voted and agreed upon that Mr. W———— and the Townsmen, until a Commission be chosen, shall appoint when the persons in the Town shall come into those fortifications and that they will be subject thereunto, and it was also voted that these fortifications shall be made by Equal Proportion by the Male Persons from fifteen years of age and upwards, and further it was agreed upon that these fortifications shall be sufficiently made and finished within a fortnight's time, and Mr. Griswold and William Stevens are chosen as a Committee for to appoint how this shall be done and to Lay the propositions.

At a Town Meeting April ye 7th, 1675—It was Voted and Agreed upon that there shall be no Land let or hired out to any Indian or Indians within the limits of this Town for the ————, under the penaltie of twenty shillings forfeit for each acre so hired out.

Joseph Loomis, the father-in-law of Lieut. Josiah Hull, before coming to New England, was a woolen draper of Braintree, Essex County, England, and was married in said county, June 30, 1614, to Mary White, daughter of Robert White and his wife Bridget Alger. He came to America in the ship "Susan and Ellen," leaving England April 1, 1638. In 1880, Elias Loomis, LL. D., Professor of Natural Philosophy and Astronomy in Yale University, a lineal descendant of the colonist Joseph, compiled and had published in two volumes, a record of The Descendants of Joseph Loomis, in which he gives the names of 1,175 persons whose descent he has traced from the before mentioned Lieut. Josias Hull and his wife Elizabeth Loomis. There will, however, be found in this volume a number of Hull-Loomis lines and several hundred names of descendants of this worthy couple not recorded in said admirable work of Professor Loomis.

5. LIEUTENANT CORNELIUS HULL, 1626-1695, of Windsor and Fairfield, Conn., son of (1) George and Thamzen Michell Hull, was married Nov. 19, 1653, to Rebecca Jones, 16—1696, daughter of Rev. John Jones and his wife Sarah.

Mr. Jones was born in Wales and ordained in England. He came to America on the ship "Defence" in 1635, and on April 6, 1637, was reordained and made pastor of the church at Concord, Mass. In September, 1644, he migrated with a considerable number of his Concord parishioners to Fairfield, Conn., and became the first pastor of the church at that place. When, in 1653, Cornelius Hull was married to the daughter of pastor Jones the town authorities of Fairfield immediately granted him a three acre town lot, to which his father added an adjoining or near by tract, containing 40 acres. Like his honored father he was a surveyor as well as husbandman, and early in his married life began adding to his landed estate, and was soon recognized as a man of substance and a prominent citizen. He was chosen deputy to the General Court in 1656, 1660, 1662 and 1667. In 1661 he was appointed Lieutenant for Fairfield County and in 1675 was made Lieutenant of "The Hon. Major Treat's Life Guards," the "crack corps" of the Connecticut soldiery of that period. For service rendered in King Philip's war he was awarded a considerable tract of land. Such of his original estate as he had not conveyed to his children previous to his death was divided by his will as follows:

To son Cornelius, 75 acres in three plots.
To sons Cornelius and Theophilus, certain meadow lands.

20. Lieut. Cornelius Hull, 1654-1740, of Hulls Farms, Fairfield, Conn., son of (5) Lieut. Cornelius and Rebecca Jones Hull, was married about 1684 to Sarah Sanford, 1666-1744, daughter of Ezekiel Sanford and his wife Rebecca Wickla. He is the recognized founder of the quaint hamlet that bears his name (*) and was for many years Lieutenant of the Fairfield train band. His will is dated Jan. 21, 1735, over five years before his death.

Ezekiel Sanford was an Englishman. By profession he was a civil engineer, and doubtless came to America in the employ of the English Government. The old stockade fort at Saybrook was planned by him and erected under his supervision. He subsequently settled in the town of Fairfield, and built there, at his personal expense, the first grist mill erected in New England, receiving by way of reward for his enterprise the patent for an extensive tract of land.

*An interesting typewritten history of Hulls Farms, prepared by the late Cyrus W. Bradley, a lineal descendant of its recognized founder, and the No. 9,200 of this volume, is on file in the Fairfield Library. Want of space precludes its introduction in full in this connection. Mr. Bradley in his introduction, says:

"The story of Hulls Farms has never been told. Its history lies buried in many volumes in the ancient records of Fairfield. There between vellum, recorded in the fair handwriting of Colonial scholars, are the documents from which must be gathered all that we may know of its founders, its ancient families and its industries in other days.

"We see it today much as our fathers saw it before the Revolution. Their mills and shops, their stores and taverns have indeed passed away, but their old mansions, whose massive timbers were framed together in the days of George the Second and George the Third, still stand in Colonial dignity beneath the stately trees which their builders planted. Each one is full of memories, and we may walk through spacious rooms whose paneled walls echoed the martial tread of officers in the French and Indian war. We may seat ourselves on the window sills and throw back the folding panels from the windows where anxious faces watched the flames of burning villages in the Revolution.

"Of the eight old houses which stand around these Hull's Farms squares, six are Colonial. . . . The three others standing in a row at the front of the long lots were built in the year 1763. Their builders, Cornelius Hull, Daniel Sherwood and Captain David Banks, were the heads of the most prominent families in Hull's Farms, and its history for a century and a quarter has centred within their walls. They were all built in the same style, they have all been kept in good repair and until recently they all belonged to the families which built them.

"It is my purpose to celebrate the two hundredth anniversary of the settlement of Hull's Farms by telling its history in the stories of these old homes, hoping and praying that they may not be given up one by one to the foreigner and the stranger, and that the years which shall come after this anniversary shall be as the years which have gone before it, full of prosperity and peace."

John Graves came from England to Hartford, and thence to Guilford in 1657, where he was married in November of the same year, to Elizabeth, only daughter and heir of Jasper Stillwell. He was unquestionably a man of prominence at Guilford, and took an interest in religious, civil and military affairs. The records show that he was a Church Deacon from 1686 to 1690; a Deputy to the General Court from 1670 to 1686, and held the offices of Ensign, Lieutenant and Captain in the Guilford Train Band, covering a period of 24 years, beginning with 1670.

Cornelius Hull left a large estate. To his daughter Elizabeth, wife of Samuel Parsons, he gives £150; to his daughter Mehitable, £250; to his son Joseph a new dwelling house and adjoining land; to his son John, to whom he had already given large sums for his settlement in the Jerseys, ten shillings. The residue of his estate, which is divided equally between his three sons, Joseph, Cornelius, and Jehiel, consists in part of seven separate tracts of land, two dwellings, a cider mill, cattle, horses, swine, oats, wheat, rye, corn, tobacco, farming utensils, and household goods.

172. Captain Daniel Hull, 1725-1811, farmer, of Redding, Conn., and South Berlin, N. Y., son of (62) Ebenezer and Martha Hull, was married at Redding, Nov. 2, 1748, to Mary Betts, 1728-1815, daughter of Lieut. Stephen Betts. In 1769 Captain Hull went on an exploring expedition into the wilderness region of what is now Rensselaer County, N. Y. A few months afterwards he revisited the place, taking with him his two oldest sons, Hezekiah and Justus, and in the valley of the Hoosick they built a comfortable log house which, a year later, became the permanent abode of the family. Their journey from Redding was made with a yoke of oxen and a cart drawn by one horse. There were eight children, the youngest being less than a year old.

A part of the journey was made over an old Indian trail, which had been widened into a wood road. Some ten miles from their destination this road came to an abrupt end, where they were obliged to abandon their cart, and carry the goods it contained on their backs and lashed to their horse through the trackless wilderness to their pioneer log house.

Their only neighbors were a community of thrifty Germans, whose nearest cabins were several miles distant. The Hulls were the first English speaking family to enter the Hoosick valley, but they were soon followed by other Connecticut Yankees, and a settlement was formed in what is now the township of Berlin. By 1775 a school house had been erected and religious services were being regularly held at the house of Capt. Hull.

The civil affairs of the settlement were managed by a committee chosen by the settlers, consisting of Capt. Daniel Hull and two other persons, who acted in the threefold capacity of judges, jurors, and executives. This was the condition of affairs in the Hoosick valley, when the news was received there of the battle of Lexington. Not many days later the male inhabitants of the valley settlements met at the house of Daniel Hull, and, after taking into consideration the "allarming crisis," forthwith organized themselves into a military company, which became a part of the 6th Albany County regiment commanded by Colonel Stephen John Schuyler; and in which both Daniel Hull and his son Hezekiah Hull are shown by the "State Treasurer's Pay Books" to have served as commissioned officers. When the committee of three ceased to act as peace officers at Berlin under the new order of things brought about by the war, Daniel Hull was appointed Justice of the Peace and held that office for many years—being the only magistrate in that region before Washington's second term as President.

Near the close of the Revolution, Capt. Hull built the first frame house erected within the limits of the present town of Berlin. In one of the spacious rooms of this house, he held court two days out of every week, until, incapacitated by old age, he was succeeded by his son, Lieut. Hezekiah Hull.

A pamphlet entitled "Reminiscences of the Settling of the Valley of the Little Hoosick," was published by Mr. Nelson Hull in 1858, and contains interesting data relating to Capt. Daniel Hull and his descendants.

The Military Records of Connecticut show that Daniel Hull was appointed Lieutenant of the Redding Company in 1754, and promoted to the rank of Captain of the same company in 1759. In the war of the Revolution he reentered the military service as Lieutenant.

He graduated from Yale in 1758, and served as a surgeon in the Revolutionary war. He is best known as the originator of "Hull's Physic," the composition of which was long kept a secret (so writes the author of Hulls Farms) from all but doctors who bore the name of Hull. The house in which he lived at Hulls Farms is said to have been built for him by his father. In 1907 this house was owned by John H. Hull, the great grandson of Dr. Eliphalet. It had then been in the family over 200 years, and was one of the treasured landmarks of the ancient Hull settlement.

On June 15th, 1808, started on a 400 mile journey with his family to what is now the town of Le Roy, Genesee County, N. Y. On July 5th, just 20 days afterwards, he unloaded his goods on the site selected for his forest cabin. A few years later it was surrounded by a cleared and productive farm. It was here that Abner Hull dwelt. A printed notice of his death reads in part as follows:

"The recent departure of our venerable townsman, Mr. Abner Hull, calls for something more than a passing notice. . . . . He was a man of sterling integrity. . . . . Nature had endowed him with a strong constitution, which qualified him for a long and laborious life in reclaiming this wilderness to a fruitfield field. He was a man of strong decision of character, with a conscientious regard for whatever he believed to be just and right."

John Beach and his wife Abigail Holbrook. Jonathan Hull owned vessels and was engaged in the West Indies trade, by which he was rapidly accumulating a fortune, when the interruptions caused by the Napoleonic wars destroyed his business and dissipated his capital. With his son Seth he determined to try his fortune as a farmer on the wild lands that were being opened up in the west. In their migration they went to the head waters of the Alleghany, where they built a flat boat, on which they floated down that river to the Ohio, and on down the Ohio to Shawneetown, Ill., where they planted a settlement; at which, on Dec. 20, 1820, Jonathan Hull died on account of an accident.

In the expedition of Generals Schuyler and Montgomery against Canada in 1775, he was a sergeant in the 5th Connecticut Regiment. In the Fishkill Campaign of 1777, he was an ensign in the 4th Connecticut Regiment. In 1780, he was serving with Col. Bezaleel Beebe's Regiment with rank of Lieutenant. In 1781, he is reported on duty as Lieutenant of the Coast Guard at Greens Farms. After the war he served four terms in the Connecticut Legislature, and held commissions as Captain, Major and Lieutenant-Colonel commanding the 4th Connecticut Regiment. He died of yellow fever at Norfolk, Va.

399h. JOEL BARLOW, 1754-1812, of Redding, Conn., poet and diplomatist, son of Samuel and (162) Esther Hull Barlow, was married to Ruth Baldwin, daughter of Michael Baldwin, Esq., of New Haven, Conn. He studied under the Rev. Mr. Bartlett, at Redding, at Moor's School near Hanover, N. H., at Dartmouth College, and at Yale. During his college course he won distinction for literary attainments, delivering at the commencement exercises of his class in 1778 a poem entitled "The Prospects of Peace."

While an undergraduate he served in the Continental Army, and from 1780 to 1783 was a chaplain in one of the Connecticut regiments. After the war he studied law, and was admitted to the bar at Hartford in 1786. In that city he founded a weekly newspaper, "The American Mercury," and was associated with the "Hartford Wits" in the production of "The Anarchaid." The publication of his epic poem, "The Vision of Columbus" (1787), brought him national reputation and obtained for him the agency in Europe of the "Sciota Land Company," for the sale of its rights in American government lands. This company proving a swindling concern, Mr. Barlow resigned his agency and interested himself in the French Girondist movement. He also became involved in English politics and his "Advice to the Privileged Orders" (1791), was proscribed by the British government. This was followed by his "Conspiracy of Kings," a poem so hostile to royalty that he found it prudent to leave England for France immediately on its publication. On reaching France, the privileges of French citizenship were offered him, an honor previously conferred on only two Americans—Washington and Hamilton. In 1793, he accompanied Gregorie, former Bishop of Blois, and other dignitaries, to Savoy, and aided in organizing that country into a department of the Republic. There he wrote his well-known poem, "The Hasty Pudding," which was dedicated to Mrs. Washington, and, on being published in America, greatly endeared him to his countrymen. In 1795, Washington appointed him consul to Algiers, where he succeeded in consummating a long pending treaty with the Bey, under the terms of which the American prisioners there were liberated.

From 1797 to 1805, he lived in a villa near Paris, formerly the property of Count Clermont Tonnere, enjoying the companionship of the chief men of the French nation, as well as of all Americans of prominence who visited the French capital. He returned to America in 1805 and built a handsome house in Washington, which he called "Kalorama," and in which he lived until 1811, when he accepted the appointment of minister to France, and returned to Paris in the frigate Constitution, which was commanded by his kinsman, Capt. Isaac Hull. On the 25th of October, 1812, Mr. Barlow received a letter from the Duke de Bassano, inviting him to Wilna, Poland, to a conference regarding a treaty in which he was greatly interested. While there he became involved in the retreat of Napoleon's army from Moscow, and was subjected to exposures he was unable to endure. At Zarawika, an obscure village in Poland, in the line of retreat, he died of acute pneumonia. His nephew, Thomas Barlow, who accompanied him as secretary, procured a hasty burial in the village cemetery, and then continued his flight. So far as kinsmen know, his remains still rest there in an unmarked and unknown grave.

427. Reverend Justus Hull, 1755-1833, of Redding, Conn., and Berlin, N. Y., son of (172) Capt. Daniel and Mary Betts Hull, was married first to Polly Pierce, 1766-1823. His second wife was Susan Hawley Hull, 17—1857, widow of his brother (434) Harry. In the war of the Revolution he was a sergeant in the 6th Albany County Regiment and participated in several engagements. That he was a brave and efficient soldier is made apparent by the following incident:

In 1786 the able bodied men of the state of New York were organized into militia regiments, and these into brigades. One of the brigade commanders, appointed at that time to organize and command these regiments, was Henry K. Van Rensselaer, Esq., who, during the war, had been the Lieut-Colonel of the 6th Albany Regiment. While engaged in the above-mentioned duty, General Van Rensselaer enquired of a member of his old regiment what had become of Sergt. Justus Hull, and was informed that he had become a preacher, to which the General replied, in a tone indicating extreme disappointment, "I'm d——d sorry, he would have made such a splendid officer."

The musket which Sergeant Hull carried during his entire service in the patriot army is an heirloom highly prized by his descendants, and was in 1908 in possession of his great grandson, Frank S. Hull, of Newburgh, N. Y. He was in the ministry 56 years, was for a considerable period pastor of the Second Baptist Church at Danbury, Conn., and is reputed to have been a preacher of more than ordinary ability.

563. Eliphalet Hull, 1749-1813, of Fairfield, son of (225) Seth and Hannah Rumsey Hull, was married in 1768, to Huldah Patchen, 1750-1839, daughter of Daniel Patchen and his wife Martha Hubbel of Wilton, Conn. In 1771 the young couple began life in earnest on a farm near Ballston, Saratoga County, N. Y., where they remained until 1790, when, with their eight children they moved to Unadilla, Yates County; and four years later to Benton, where Mr. Hull ended his days. The most eventful period of their lives was while their home was in Saratoga County. It included the seven years of the Revolution, the days that "tried men's souls." The following sketch was prepared by two of their descendants, Mrs. Emma Buell Lee, and her sister, Sarah E. Buell, of Yates County, N. Y., in 1902:

"Eliphalet Hull was a soldier of the Revolution. His name is enrolled in Capt. John Thompson's Co., of 13th Albany County Regiment. He was also a scout and a minute man. With his two yoke of oxen, and his son Salmon, ten years old, driving one team, he helped place the great chain across the Hudson below West Point, which was intended to keep the British vessels from ascending. Great grandmother Hull resided during her last years with our grandmother Sarah Hull Buell, and we often listened with great interest to the stories of the part she and great grandfather played during the War of the Revolution. Their home was on the line of Burgoyne's march and they suffered great hardships. At one time all the men and boys were called to the Fort, as an attack was expected. Reinforcements were needed, but no one could be spared to send for them. Our great grandmother mounted a horse and rode through the November sleet and rain and at daybreak returned with the reinforcements. On some occasions she was compelled to take her children and hide in the woods, and twice she put them in an ox cart and returned to Connecticut. . . . . .

"Eliphalet Hull was one of the noblest of the early settlers of Benton, a good man with endowments and acquirements that made him useful to his own generation, and doubly so to the youth of the new settlement. . . . . .

"Huldah Patchen Hull, was a woman of remarkable capabilities and worth. Her experience covered the whole period of the Revolution and many years thereafter, buffeting the trials and perils incident to pioneer life, which involves hardships and privations inconceivable in our times, and made her an oracle of her period among a wide circle of acquaintances."

It is dated Newville, Colusa Co., Cal., March 26, 1873, and reads in part as follows:

"In the Spring of '52 I started for Oregon. We now had six children. . . . . After getting a small outfit, some oxen and provision I had nothing left. We started in company with two other families and crossed the Missouri river at old Independence. . . . . We soon saw plenty of Redskins but they were very friendly. It was very sickly that year, and many died of cholera. I had it at Plat River, but thanks to a kind Providence recovered and went on. . .

We had much difficulty in crossing bad streams with our cattle and wagons, but pressed on across the great American Desert, and on over the Rocky Mountains, spending the 4th of July near Green River. We struck Snake River at Fort Hall, and traveled down that stream . . . to the mouth of Mulhume River, and from there struck across for Burnt River. But before we reached that stream I met with an accident which came very near proving fatal to me. We camped for a day, and in the evening I went out with my gun to kill some Rocky Mountain hare, and when I came in I set my gun up against the wagon. . . . The next morning my wife saw the gun standing against the wagon and said, "There is your gun, you had better put it in." In taking it up it hit against the wheel and was discharged, the bullet breaking my jaw, passing through my mouth and nose and coming out at the inside corner of my left eye, destroying the sight entirely but not injuring the ball. We were yet about 500 miles from our journey's end, the rough roads came very near proving too much for me . . . but we pushed on and finally reached the Falls of the Columbia River where there was a government fort at which I secured some wine and other knicknacks. I was not able to continue the journey over the Cascade Mountains, and so took passage on a flat boat down the Great River, sending my oxen on over the mountains with those who had travelled with us. I never again saw them or the oxen. We were now out of both money and provision. My wife sold the rifle for $20, and that lasted us until we reached Portland, Oregon, but we did not reach that place without great hardships and trouble. We had high winds and Indians for our cruise down to the Cascades. From there we had to make a portage of 16 miles by land. I was able to ride an Indian pony by drinking quite freely of the wine and taking frequent rests, and my wife and children walked. I hired a team to take our scanty outfit. When we reached the boat landing below, at a little town called Cascades, since sacked and burned by the Indians, we found two steamboats running opposition to Portland. The strife was so hot that they offered to pay us to go on their boats and we accepted a free passage, with a splendid dinner and kind treatment, reaching Portland, Sept. 15, all in splendid health but myself. I was just able to walk up from the boat landing to the main street by the help of two men. We were all strangers in a strange city. I sat down on a bench while my wife looked around for shelter. She soon found a vacant house and before the sun went down we had moved into it. The next day she looked for work and succeeded in getting some washing and sewing. Our daughter Charlotte was about 12 years old and was a great help to us. They received 25 cents a piece for washing and sewing in proportion; but flour was $25 a barrel and potatoes $2 a bushel. I gained strength slowly, and after we had been in Portland some three weeks I got a farmer to take us out in the country about 18 miles.

"By promising to build a man a barn in the spring I got, on credit, enough potatoes and beef to last us through the winter. Sometimes we could get a little flour and sometimes a little wheat. My wound gradually healed, but I had to have it lanced several times to take out pieces of bone. On the first of March, I went to work and built a fine barn for the man who had given me credit, and soon had plenty of work at $4 a day, but everything was high and I could not do more than make a hard living. I tried different things and plodded on without marked success for 14 years, when I pulled up stakes and moved here where I am now living. . . . My farm and sheep pasture consists of about 2300 acres of land, all government title. I have some three or four hundred acres which will bring first rate wheat and barley. I drive my sheep to the mountains about the first of May and fetch them about the first of September. During the time we kill a good many deer, which are fat and fine. My boys are first rate deer hunters, sometimes killing five or six in a day; and occasionally we get a bear, a panther, or a California lion."

The Pacific Christian, of Nov. 30, 1905, contains an obituary from which the following paragraph is copied:

"Cyrus B. Hull became a Christian at the age of 21. He was a pioneer preacher of the gospel in California, in Colusa and Tehama counties for a number of years. For the last ten years of his life he was unable to preach on account of ill health, and for the last four or five years he was a great sufferer. His wife, a good Christian woman, preceded him to the Better Land by about five years."

2739. Clinton T. Hull, 1842-1910, of Ellison, Warren Co., Ill., son of (1090) Telemachus and Emily B. Woodworth Hull, was married Jan. 9, 1868, to Eliza A. Reed, daughter of William A. Reed and his wife Mary Houston, a descendant of John and Mary (Marshall) Reed of "Eastern Shore," Maryland. Mr. Hull's father died when he was but four years old, and at the age of fourteen, he, with his mother and stepfather, moved to Iowa, where he worked on the farm during the summer and attended the District school during the short winter season. In the spring of 1861 he received a first grade certificate from the Superintendent of schools of Henry Co., Iowa, and was employed by the Prospect school in that County as teacher. He served in the Civil War, enlisting in Sept., 1861, at Mount Pleasant, Iowa, in Company G, 11th Infantry, Iowa Volunteers. On April 6, 1862, he was severely wounded and reported dead. On his recovery, through the skill of his family physician, Dr. H. C. Hull, he returned to his regiment at Corinth, Miss., and engaged in the campaigns around there, also at Bolivar, Iuka, Holly Springs, Memphis, Vicksburg, Jackson and Meridian. In Dec., 1863, he re-enlisted as a veteran, joing Sherman's army at Big Shanty, was under fire at Kenesaw Mountain, Nick-o-Jack Creek and Atlanta, where July 2, 1864, he was taken prisoner of war and confined at Andersonville, Ga., Florence, So. Carolina and Goldsboro, No. Carolina. On March 3, 1865, he was paroled and sent to the Union lines. Again joining his regiment he participated in the memorable Grand Review of the Union Armies at Washington, D. C. Sherman's army then moved to Louisville, Ky., where the veterans of "The March to the Sea" were held until the departure of the French from Mexico. Orders then came from the War Department to muster out.

During the time, while there, the 1st Lieutenant of Co. G. resigned. An election was called by the members, who at the time of re-enlistment had been promised "That they should have the privilege of electing their Company's Officers," and it is regarded with more pleasure than a commission that, when the ballots cast were counted, all had voted for their comrade, Clinton T. Hull. Returning to the farm near Ellison, his birthplace, he taught school during the winters of 1865 and 1866. In 1867 he moved to Wayne, Iowa, and engaged in farming, and was then married, teaching school during the winters of 1870 and 1871. In the following September, he moved with his family to Newville, Cal. He was appointed Deputy Assessor for one term, and taught school for twelve years. In 1883 he moved to San Francisco, and has been connected with the Post Office since that time, serving in different capacities, and (1909) has been connected with the Registry Department for ten years. He is a member of Lincoln Post No. 1, Department of California and Nevada, G. A. R., and Sons of American Revolution, and of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and a trustee of the Hull Family Association. For the past ten years his leisure time has been devoted to collecting records of Lieut. Cornelius Hull of Fairfield, son of George Hull, colonist. Mr. Hull died May 16, 1910.

3538. Theodore B. Hull, 1834-1906, of Sutter Co., Cal., son of (1414) Seth and Frances A. Hartwell Hull, was married in 1867 to Maggie Wilkie. He was born in Chatauqua Co., N. Y., spent his boyhood days on his father's farm in Michigan, and moved with his parents in 1852 to California. Before attaining his majority the gold fever seized him and his next eight years were spent in the mines. In 1862 he settled down to the life of a farmer in Sutter County, of which he soon became, and remained to the day of his death, a respected and influential citizen. For sixteen years he was a Justice of the Peace, for several years President of the County Board of Education, and for over a quarter of a century either Clerk or President of the Board of Directors of Levee District No. 1, of Sutter County. He was for a considerable period, as shown by his letterheads, "Proprietor of the Yuba City Flouring Mill," and interested in other business enterprises. A communication to "The Sutter Independent," published in its issue of Oct. 25, 1906, and referring to his death, closes with the following paragraph:

"No person in the community has been a greater factor in its betterment, than has the late T. B. Hull. No human agency has contributed as much as he to the successful reclamation of District No. 1 of Sutter County, and the same may be said of the long, persistent and tedious contest against the devastation of this valley by mining debris. In all public improvements he was invariably in the van with his assistance and counsel. His life and example are component parts of the history of Sacramento Valley; it will be almost impossible to fill the vacancy in this regard, caused by his untimely death. It can be truthfully said that T. B. Hull was among the 'noblest works of God, an honest man.' "

Mr. Felch received his education at a country school, the public schools of Columbus, the Salem High School and the Ohio State University. He is an editor and author of note, giving evidence of it when a child, often neglecting school duties, writing on scraps of paper, concealing them in his books, upon which his first printed story "Bro. Brandeth, The Story of an Interrupted Revival," was produced. Before the completion of his twentieth year, he had written many stories and sketches, which were followed later by serials and dramatic productions, and several novels, with two editions of poetry. He early engaged in journalism, filling positions from reporter to editor of various newspapers, and was a contributor upon literary and scientific topics to several magazines. About 1885 he went to Hartford, Conn., engaging in other business enterprises, but keeping up with his literary work. During his residence there he originated the Connecticut Quarterly. For a number of years the Genealogical Dept. of the Hartford Times has been conducted by him, 'Noel Little,' furnishing general information upon the subject. He has compiled several genealogies and traces his ancestors forty generations. He is now associate editor of Success, a magazine published in Ohio. Much of the data of the early generations of the George Hull branch has been contributed by him. He has but one

THE JOSEPH HULL BRANCH

Rev.

Descendants of Joseph Hull

1. Rev. Joseph Hull, 1595-1665, colonist, and founder of what in later years became known as the Mariner-Quaker branch of the Hull family in America, was the son of Thomas and Joane Peson Hull, of Crewkerne, Somersetshire, England. He was educated at St. Mary's Hall, Oxford, from which he received his degree of B. A. at graduation Nov. 14, 1614. During the five years immediately following, he studied theology, serving meantime as a teacher and curate under his elder brother William Hull, vicar of Colyton in Devonshire. On Apr. 14, 1621, having been ordained a clergyman of the Church of England, he was duly instituted rector of Northleigh, diocese of Exeter, which was the scene of his labours for eleven years. At the end of that period he evidently found himself out of accord with those in ecclesiastical authority over him, and, as shown by the records, voluntarily resigned his rectorship. Leaving Northleigh he moved with his family to the vicinity of his ancestral home at Crewkerne, and there gathered a company of 106 souls, who, on March 20, 1635, set sail with him from the harbor of Weymouth, bound for New England.

For 235 years the shipping list containing the names, occupations and ages of this goodly company of intelligent adventurers, known in New England history as "Hull's Colony," was lost sight of, and its existence was generally doubted by interested historians and genealogists, but in 1870 a copy of it appeared in The New England Genealogical Antiquarian Register, accompanied by the following explanatory note:—

London, Sept. 1870.

My Dear Mr. Appleton:—

Amongst a bundle of miscellaneous manuscripts just turned up in the Public Records Office, I find with other documents relating to New England, the following list of passengers, which I have the pleasure of sending to you for publication in the Register.

I remain yours very truly,

H. G. Somerby.

This so long sought Shipping List contains 104 names and is headed by the name of our Rev. Joseph, with the names of his family as follows:

Waymouth ye 20th March 1635.

1. Joseph Hull, of Somerset, a minister, aged 40 years.
2. Agnes Hull, his wife, aged 25 years.
3. Joane Hull, his daughter, aged 15 years.
4. Joseph Hull, his sonne, aged 13 years.
5. Tristram Hull, his sonne, aged 11 years.
6. Temperance Hull, his daughter, aged 9 years.
7. Elizabeth Hull, his daughter, aged 7 years.
8. Grissell Hull, his daughter, aged 5 years.
9. Dorothy Hull, his daughter, aged 3 years.
10. Judith French, his servant, aged 20 years.
11. John Wood, his servant, aged 20 years.
12. Robert Dobyn, his servant, aged 28 years.

John Porter, Deputy Clerk to
Edw. Thoroughgood.

Hull's Colony reached Boston, May 6, 1635, and Governor Winthrop's Official Journal, under date of July 8th of that year, contains the following entry:

> At this court Wessaguscus was made a plantation and Mr. Hull, a minister of England, and twenty-one families with him allowed to sit down there.

The arrival of Hull's Colony at Wessaguscus doubled its population, and the plantation was soon created a full-fledged town, invested with municipal rights, rechristened Waymouth, and allowed representation in the General Court.

"Mr. Hull," (so writes his accomplished descendant and biographer, the late Colonel R. B. Hull), "was a magistrate and member of the General Court of Massachusetts Bay Colony, as well as minister at Weymouth. He, however, was in antagonism to the Boston Puritanical Party, retaining his attachment for the old establishment. He was the political and religious opponent of Governor Winthrop, being more than suspected of Prelacy. Mr. Hull moved in 1639 to the Old Colony of Plymouth, and there founded the present town of Barnstable, at a place called by the Indians, Mattakeese. The rock still stands in the middle of the highway, from which he preached, surrounded by his armed parishioners.

"Plymouth Colony was, however, not much more congenial for a man of his political and religious sentiments than the Massachusetts Bay Colony. The Separatist party increased, the opening of the civil war in England checked immigration in 1639, and Mr. Hull and his political friends were left in a hopeless minority. He soon after removed to the Episcopal Colony of Sir Ferdinando Gorges in Maine, and under his patronage was minister at Accomenticus (now York, Maine), and had the Isles of Shoals also under his charge. There he remained until 1653, when the Massachusetts Bay Colony subjected the provinces of Maine to their jurisdiction, and Mr. Hull again felt the power of his old enemies on the Bay. A sound Puritan preacher, Mr. Brock, was sent to supersede him, and shortly afterward, we find, Mr. Hull returned to England and was Rector of St. Burien in Cornwall, near Lands End.

"The children of Mr. Hull remained in this country, married here and settled. He again returned and was minister at Oyster River for a short period, and then recovered his old parish at Accomenticus, (York, Maine) where he died in 1665.

"Reviewing all, it is concluded that in England Mr. Hull was a conformist, and remained within the pale of the church obedient to authority, that in New England he still endeavored to hold to a middle course, as a latitudinarian or low churchman, but that failing in this, after repeated attempts, he finally withdrew to a province where he was free to practice and profess as best suited his conscience. No whisper has reached us that he was unorthodox or weak in his theology, and of his moral nature we catch glimpses of but three traits; that in habit he was scholarly, in temperament religious, and in spirit contentious."

It is stated in Narragansett Historical Register, Vol. I., page 145, that the first wife of Rev. Joseph Hull was named Joanna and that she died in England, but no positive dates are given. Neither have any records been discovered giving the date of his marriage to his second wife Agnes. It is evident that his wife Joanna died shortly after giving birth to her daughter Dorothy in 1632, and that he was married to his second wife Agnes previous to the year 1635.

The following condensed record of some of the prominent events in his strenuous career in America, given in chronological order will doubtless be appreciated by his descendants:

1635. May. Rev. Joseph Hull and company of 106 persons reached New England, and in July were allowed to "sit down at Wessaguscus," now Weymouth, Mass.

1636 or 1637. He moved to Nantasket, then a part of Hingham, Was twice elected Deputy to General Court.

1639. Preached his farewell sermon at Weymouth in May. Settled at Barnstable, on land granted to him, and founded the town in June. Thanksgiving service held there in his house in November. Was one of the two first Deputies to the General Court elected from Barnstable and took his seat in December.

1640. His name appears on the Barnstable list of "Men able to bear Arms." On Apr. 14, he invested "Bro. Moe into office of Teacher."

1641. Moved to Yarmouth. Was excommunicated for breaking communion with Barnstable Church and joining himself with a company at Yarmouth to be their pastor, contrary to the advice and council of the Church of Barnstable. Preached also to a congregation at York several times during the year. A "Church-Chapel" was also erected by the inhabitants of the Isles of Shoals on Hog Island for a congregation of which the records say, Rev. Joseph Hull was the minister.

1642. Mar. 7. It was ordered at a session of the General Court "that a warrant shall be directed to the Constable of Yarmouth to apprehend Mr. Joseph Hull (if he do either exercise his ministry amongst them or administer the Seals), to bring him before the next magistrate, to find sufficient sureties for his appearance at the next General Court, to answer his doings (being an excommunicant)."

1643. The Barnstable records state that Rev. Joseph Hull acknowledged his sin and was again received. "Our Sister Hull renewed her covenant, renouncing her joining at Yarmouth and confessed her evil in so doing, with sorrow." Before the end of the year he moved with his family to York, Me.

1644. Nantasket was made a town and named Hull, in honor of the Rev. Joseph Hull.*

1645. In that year's record of Volunteers for the Narragansett War, the name of Rev. Joseph Hull appears as 116. It also appears on the later list of Soldiers of the Narragansett War that drew "Cedar Swamp" lots, his being No. 37

1652. He returned to England and was given the living at St. Burien in Cornwall, where he remained for about ten years.

*This on the authority of Dexter, but see map made by Capt. John Smith, which gives Hull as the name prior to the Rev. Joseph Hull's arrival in America.

1662. He came again to New England and settled at Oyster River where he had considerable trouble with the Quakers.

1665. Nov. 19. He died intestate at Isles of Shoals, leaving an estate valued at 52 pounds, 5 shillings and 5 pence—10 pounds of which was put down for books, and 20 pounds as due him from the Isles of Shoals for his ministry.†

In 1863 Mr. Oliver Hull published a "Book of the Hulls," but as the shipping list mentioned above had not as yet come to light, he was unable to trace his ancestors back of Tristram Hull, who it is now known, was none other than the second son of the Rev. Joseph Hull. Soon after the original shipping list was copied and published in America, Col. Robert B. Hull, U. S. A. retired and living in New York City, prepared a sketch of the life and times of his ancestor, the Rev. Joseph Hull, which lay in manuscript many years. Col. Hull died in 1891, and seven years later Mr. James W. Hull had printed for private distribution a small edition of this exhaustive and carefully prepared sketch, which makes a booklet of 32 pages.

2. JOANNA HULL, 1620—after 1683, oldest child of (1) Rev. Joseph Hull and his wife Joanna, was married first Nov. 28, 1639 to Capt. John Bursley of Barnstable, Mass. Her second husband was Dolor Davis.

†Records have come to light which show conclusively that for several years previous to 1652 either (1) Rev. Joseph or his son (3) Joseph was acting as agent for certain English exporters of cattle.

"Capt. John Bursley was one of the 'Old Planters' settled on the coast before the arrival of the Puritans under Endicott. There is little doubt he is one of the six gentlemen companions of Capt. Robert Gorges in 1623. . . . He lived in Wessagusset, the point subsequently occupied by Mr. Hull and his family. He was a trader with the Eastern Indians and had an establishment at Kittery, Me., and trading houses at other places on the coast. His name is on the oldest tax list on record in this country; the assessment levied on the plantations to defray the expenses of the campaign against Morton of Merry Mount in 1628. He and Mr. Jeffries were taxed an equal amount to that paid by either the settlement of Plymouth or Piscataqua, and double that paid by the settlement at Dover; which is evidence of their wealth and consequence.

"Upon the formation of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, his plantation or part of it was included within the limits of Dorchester Township, and he was admitted freeman October 19, 1630, and sworn May 18 following, and was deputy to the General Court May, 1636, and an active member of committees during the year. He was again elected in November, 1637 and acted as a member of the boundary commission.

"In 1639 he removed to Barnstable in Plymouth Colony with his father-in-law, Mr. Hull, to whom and Mr. Dimock, the lands in Barnstable had been granted by the Plymouth Court. He made frequent visits of a commercial and mercantile character to the eastern coast, and was there a man of much influence, taking an active part in the politics of the time and steadily resisting the enroachments of Massachusetts.

"In Maine he had large landed interests. On Dec. 2, 1631 and March 2, 1632 patents from the council for New England were issued to Sir Ferdinando Gorges, John Bursley, William Jeffries and nine other associates for 12,000 acres to themselves on the east side of the river Aquamontiquos, and 100 acres additional for each settler.

"Mr. Bursley died at Barnstable in 1660, leaving a large estate, and he is reckoned among the wealthy of that period. His widow, Joanna intermarried with Dolor Davis, a man of good repute in the colony, but had no children by him. Davis died in 1673. She was living as late as 1683 at the old Bursley homestead, adjoining the plantations of Edward Fitz Randolph on the South, [illegible] of Abraham Blish on the West."

When about 13 years of age he came with the Hull company of colonists to Massachusetts. Governor Winthrop in his journal under date of 12 Mo. 1644, makes a record showing that Joseph Hull was with his father, Rev. Joseph, that year at Accomenticus (now York, Maine).

4. CAPT. TRISTRAM HULL, 1624-1667, of New England, 2nd son of (1) Rev. Joseph Hull and his wife Joanna, was in 1643 residing at Yarmouth, where in 1643 he was enrolled and mustered in the little army of which Miles Standish was "Captain-General." In 1643 he was married to Blanche ————, and previous to 1648 moved to Barnstable. Evidently he was bred to a sea-faring career, for he owned a ship named The Catch, was part owner of the bark Hopewell, and frequently made long sea voyages. Customs entries show that he was engaged to a considerable extent in trade with the West Indies.

Capt. Hull when "on shore" took a lively interest in local affairs affecting the wellbeing of Barnstable, was treated with special consideration by his fellow townsmen, and unhesitatingly performed the multifarious duties expected in those days of prominent and public spirited citizens. The records of Barnstable show that he frequently served on juries, was one of the town dignitaries appointed to wait upon the Assembly Committee concerning the town charter, took a leading part in the purchase of town lands from the Indians, served one year as constable, and during the last six years of his life was a leading member of the town board of selectmen.

In the government's fanatical and inhuman persecution of the Quakers his sympathies were with the latter, and he boldly rendered them assistance and succor whenever and wherever occasion offered. For this he was subjected to much annoyance and heavy fines, but there is nothing to indicate that this made him change his course. In spite of the government's unjust and cruel attitude toward the Quakers, or rather we should doubtless say because of it, several of his children and many of their descendants publicly espoused the Quaker faith, and some of them became prominent leaders in the denomination.

Capt. Hull died at Barnstable, leaving a large estate for one of his age and times. His will is dated Dec. 30, 1666, and was proved on Mar. 12, following. In the inventory of his estate we find record, in addition to the lands and ships above mentioned, of 36 head of cattle assessed at 118 pounds, 5 shillings; cash, 105 pounds, and due the estate, exclusive of an undefined amount "in hands of the Indians," 300 pounds. His will provides that his son Joseph shall have the homestead and lands attached and six acres more; that his wife Blanche shall have the use of new portion of house and 150 pounds; that his three daughters shall each have 100 pounds; that his son John shall have a certain lot and 30 pounds; that Robert Davis shall have 3 pounds, and that the residuary estate be divided equally, share and share alike, among his wife and children. A short time after his death his widow was married to a Capt. Hedge, who was old enough to have been her father, and from whom she soon separated.

6. ELIZABETH HULL, 1628-1706, daughter of (1) Rev. Joseph Hull and his wife Joanna, was married at York, Maine, in 1643, to Capt. John Heard, 16—1689, of Kittery and Dover, son of Luke Heard and his wife Sarah Wyatt of Newbury and Salisbury, Conn. Soon after marriage they settled at Dover. In 1652 Capt. Heard owned a large tract of land at Cocheco. During the Indian wars he served as an Ensign and Lieutenant, and is the Master Heard of Pike's Journal. He was also a sea captain.

Elizabeth Hull Heard holds a high rank among the heroic gentlewomen of that period, and is deserving of more space than can be given in this volume, but the story of her experience on an exposed outpost, where for a long time she was surrounded by hostile savages, has been told in detail by Mather, Wilkinson, Belknap and Wharton, all of whom bear testimony to her heroism and devotion. One incident in her remarkable career will have to suffice in this connection.

During the unprovoked and cruel massacre of Indians by whites in 1676, she saved the life of a young Indian by concealing him until his would-be slayers had left her house and then aided him to escape. Twelve years later she fell into the hands of the savages and was enabled to escape unharmed by the aid of this same Indian.

9. Hopewell Hull, about 1636-1693, yeoman, of New Hampshire and New Jersey, son of (1) Rev. Joseph Hull and his wife Agnes, was married about 1668 to Mary Martin, daughter of John Martin and his wife Esther Roberts. Esther Roberts Martin was the daughter of Thomas Roberts who was Governor of the colony of Dover, N. H., in 1641.

In 1666 Hopewell Hull accompanied Robert Martin to New Jersey, and joined with him and two others in the purchase of a township plot of wild land located in the County of Middlesex, which they named Piscataqua, after the region they had migrated from in New Hampshire.

The ceremony or form by which Hopewell Hull and Mary Martin were married was probably that of the Quakers. At all events it did not suit the legal authorities of New Jersey, and it is on record that on Dec. 29, 1669, an order was duly issued directing them to remarry, with which they promptly complied.

In 1675, Hopewell Hull represented the town of New Piscataqua in the General Assembly of West Jersey, and took an active part in public affairs.

His name is met with frequently in the early records of New Jersey, especially in connection with the purchase and sale of lands. His will is dated Mar. 26, 1693. In it he mentions his sons Hopewell and Joseph, both of whom are said to be under age, refers to his daughters but does not give their names, designates his wife as executrix and names his brother Benjamin of Piscataway or Piscataqua, as one of his overseers. Several months after his death his youngest son was born and named Benjamin.

The property conveyed included a farm on the Raritan river and additional tracts at Shingle Hill and in Piscataqua meadows.

Mary Martin Hull, widow of Hopewell, was married Apr. 9, 1696 to Justinian Hall.

10. Capt. Benjamin Hull, 1639-1713, of Oyster River (Durham) and Dover in N. H., and Piscataqua, N. J., son of (1) Rev. Joseph Hull and his wife Agnes, was married about the year 1668 to Rachel York.*

He was baptized at Hingham, Mass., Mar. 22, 1639, by Rev. Mr. Hobert. In 1659 he had a grant for a considerable tract of land southwest of Lamphrey Falls, and from 1659 to 1669 paid taxes at Oyster River. At the commencement of the Indian wars he was a member of Capt. Robert Mason's troop of horse, and was subsequently commissioned Captain. For several years previous to 1676 he lived at or near Cocheco (Dover), in the heart of the

*Richard York of Dover, N. H., in his will dated 1672, mentions his daughter "Ratchell Halle." It is quite probable that the writer of the will wrote H a l l e when he should have writeen H u l l.—See N. H. State Papers, Vol. XXX, page 134.

Piscataqua country. On Mar. 22, 1678, he deeded his land at Dover to one John Rand, and removed to Piscataqua, Middlesex Co., N. J., where he had previously purchased 498 acres of land. In the year last named he was granted a license to keep a tavern in said New Piscataqua. It is said that the business of hotel keeping then established by him was carried on continuously under the Hull name for nearly two hundred years. The records show numerous transfers of land to and from him.

13. CAPT. REUBEN HULL, about 1644-1689, son of (1) Rev. Joseph Hull, and his wife Agnes, was married about 1672 to Hannah Fernside, daughter of John Fernside and his wife Elizabeth Starr. Before Dec. 24, 1674, Capt. Hull and his wife had been living at Portsmouth. On that date his brother-in-law, Mr. John Cutt, in consideration stated to be "love and affection" for his kinsman Reuben Hull and Hannah his wife, conveyed to him a lot of land in Portsmouth, with right of way to obtain water from a well which Reuben Hull had already dug on land of the grantor. By same deed Mr. Cutt conveys to Reuben Hull a wharf and privilege on the river. The records show that on Aug. 5, 1677, Reuben Hull was witness to a deed from William Ham to Matthew Ham; that he was one of those selected to vote at the first election, held on Mar. 1, 1679-80, to choose an assembly under the new government, of which his said brother-in-law President John Cutt was the head; that he was a member of the jury which on Mar. 16, 1679-80 met to try the important case of Mark Hunking vs. Edward Randolph, and that in December of the year last mentioned he was the holder of a mortgage against the homestead of William Williams, Sr.

President Cutt died Mar. 27, 1681, and Reuben Hull was named as one of the overseers of his will, and was made guardian of John Cutt, Jr., the President's oldest son, who was a minor.

In September, 1681, Reuben Hull was nominated by President and Council as an alternate candidate for one of the vacancies in the Council, but their first choice, Anthony Nutter, was appointed In January, 1683, he was a witness against Edward Cove, who was accused and convicted of treason. In January, 1684, his name appears in a list of members of the Portsmouth troop of horse commanded by Capt. Robert Mason. In 1685 he witnessed the will of John Beckford, Sr., of Oyster River.

The next mention of him in ancient records is under date of Aug. 2, 1688, and recites that Richard Hyat of Barbadoes gives a power of attorney to his "trusty and well beloved friend Reuben Hull, of Piscataqua," merchant, to sell certain lands. Reuben Hull conveys under this power by deed dated Mar. 20, 1689.

The witnesses of the will of Reuben Hull swore that they heard him declare what was written to be his will, but that he died before he had an opportunity to sign and seal it. This will conveys to his wife Hannah a life interest in his realty, provides that his son Joseph Hull shall on death of testator, have a certain part consisting of house, land, wharf and warehouse, with a proviso that if they be appraised at more than his double share he is to pay the surplus to the other children. It conveys to the testator's sister-in-law Sarah Fernside, ten pounds, and directs that his island, house, stages, boats and "concernes" at the Isle of Shoals be sold; and that the residue of his estate, after the bringing up of his children until they are of age be equally divided among them.

The principle articles mentioned in the inventory of his estate are, dwelling house, brewhouse, garden, warehouses, wharf, one half of ketch Adventure, one gundelowe and several cannoes, one Negro man, one Negro old woman, William Gubbo of Jersey, a servant (appraised at five pounds), and a quantity of silver.

Hannah Fernside Hull married as her second husband, George Snell, and the records show that on Sept. 25, 1702, George Snell and wife Sarah, relict and executrix of Reuben Hull, of Portsmouth, deceased, convey to William Partridge "One well with the water in it."

The will of George Snell was proved in March, 1708. In it he names as executors his wife and John Snell, mentions his children, Hannah Littlefield and Abiel Hill, refers to an obligation he gave his wife on marriage to give to each child one hundred pounds, and states that his books will show how much he had advanced to each. Then follows:

"I doe give to my sonn Dodivah Hull my silver tumbler and Mr. Preston's book on duentity;

" I doe give to my sonn Joseph Hull my sea Arbels·

"I doe give to my sonn Reuben Hull my scale and compasses and wearing cloues;

"I doe give to my daughter Sarah my silver scolop dish and my white codell pote and cheny bason."

In a deed dated July 15, 1719, one of the grantors is described as "Hannah Snell of Portsmouth, widow and executrix of her former husband Reuben Hull of Portsmouth, mariner." The last recorded deeds executed by "Hannah Snell" are dated May 13, 1726. The date of her death has not been ascertained.

For the foregoing record the compiler is indebted mainly to Charles H. Bachelder, Esq., of Portsmouth, N. H. The Theodore Atkinson records, published in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, give the following table of children of Reuben Hull and his wife Hannah Fernside:

15. SAMUEL HULL, 16—17—, of Pascataway, Middlesex Co., N. J., probably the youngest child of (1) Rev. Joseph Hull and his wife Agnes, was married first Oct. 16, 1677, to Mary Manning, daughter of Jeffrey Manning and his wife Hephsibah Andrews. His second wife, whom he married sometime before 1702, was named Margaret. The date of his coming to New Jersey is not shown by any records examined. He owned land adjoining that of John Martin in 1682, signed as a witness the will of Esther Martin Dec. 20, 1687, and on May 10, 1688, purchased 80 acres on Doty Brook.

Jeffrey Manning was the son of William Manning, 1578-1613—see Fitz Randolph Traditions.

*Administration of the estate of Capt. Dodivah Hull, 1716, of Portsmouth, was granted Hannah Snell, widow, and her son John Snell—mother and brother of Capt. Dodivah Hull. Mention is made of Capt. Hull's sister Sarah.

20. BENJAMIN HULL, about 1642——, of Portsmouth, N. H., son of (3) Joseph Hull, was married about 1664 to Mary Fernside, daughter of John and Elizabeth Starr Fernside of Duxbury and Boston, whose sister Hannah married (13) Reuben Hull. This Benjamin Hull, like the said Reuben, who was his uncle but probably his junior in years, was a merchant and man of affairs in Portland. He was a Selectman of Portland in 1678. He was politically opposed to the arbitrary Cranfield and his affidavit against him was read before the Privy Council Mar. 10, 1684. It is a matter of record that this affidavit of Benjamin Hull, and others of like nature from business men of Portsmouth, led to the removal of Cranfield from the Governorship of the colony.

21. PHINEAS HULL, 1648——, son of (3) Joseph Hull, was at Kittery, Me., in 1671, and in 1681 had a grant of 60 acres at Saco on the eastern side of Little River Falls where he erected a mill. In 1682 he was taxed at Cape Porpoise 2 pounds for his saw mill and to support Fort Loyal. In 1683 he was chosen Townsman of Saco, and in 1684 was fined 28 shillings for "saucy and abusive language toward Rev. Mr. Milburn, a minister of the united churches at Saco and Cape Porpus."

On Aug. 22, 1690, when he was traveling with his wife Jerusha, and Robert Young, between York and Kittery, they were attacked by Indians, who killed Young and carried into captivity Hull's wife, but from whom Hull himself escaped. Mrs. Hull was kept a prisoner until Nov. 23, 1691, when she was released under conditions of a truce entered into at Sagadahoc. Mrs. Hull made no complaint of the usage accorded her while in the hands of her captors. They caused her at times to serve them as a Secretary in their communications with the whites, and as she wrote plainly it is said they were loth to part with her. "It is conjectured that this man's family all perished in the murderous times of the long-continued Indian Wars."

22. JOHN HULL, 16—1673, of Saco, Me., son of (3) Joseph Hull, was married to Mary Spencer, "a young gentlewoman of good repute," the daughter of "Capt. Robert Spencer, a person of good fashion." They removed to Boston, and he was there styled Junior to distinguish him from John Hull the mint master and treasurer of the colony. He died there intestate and childless. His widow married as her second husband, William Phipps, afterward Sir William and Royal Governor of Massachusetts.

Sir William Phipps died in 1695, also without issue, leaving his property by will to his "entirely beloved wife Mary," who took for her third husband Hon. Peter Sergeant, a member of the Council. She had no issue by any of her husbands. By will "her accumulations went to her adopted son, Spencer Phipps, alias Bennett, her nephew."

23. DODIVAH HULL, about 1645-1682, of York, Me., son of (3) Joseph Hull, had a grant of 15 acres in the town of York Sept 21, 1667. His only child so far as known, was a daughter named Mary, who married Nicholas Follett, Jr., son of the Nicholas Follett of Dover, who was deputy to the convention on the overthrow of Andros in 1689. Nicholas, Sr., was the son of William Follett and his wife Elizabeth, colonist residents of Dover in 1651. Nicholas and Mary Hull Follett lived in Portsmouth and left descendants. On Feb. 25, 1702-3, the above mentioned 15 acres of land in York, deeded to Dodivah Hull in 1667, was laid out anew to his son-in-law, Nicholas Follett.

New Hampshire state papers Vol. XXXI., page 258, show that on June 6, 1682, administration was granted Mary Hull, the will of her husband, Dodivah Hull, being imperfect.

25. MARY HULL, 1645——, daughter of (4) Capt. Tristram and his wife Blanche, was married in 1661 to Joseph Holway, 1635——, son of Joseph Holway and his wife Rose of Sandwich, Mass.

28. JOSEPH HULL, 1652-1709 or 1719, of Barnstable, Mass., and South Kingston, R. I., son of (4) Capt. Tristram Hull and his wife Blanche, was by occupation a planter, cooper, merchant and shipper. He doubtless joined the Society of Friends previous to his marriage in October, 1676, to his Quaker wife, Experience Harper, 1657——, daughter of Robert Harper and his wife Deborah Perry of Sandwich, Mass.

Robert Harper was a Quaker of prominence. In 1660 he stood under the scaffold and caught in his arms the body of his friend William Leddra, the martyr preacher, when cut down by the Boston hangman. For this act Harper and his wife were the same year banished.

At about the time that Joseph Hull and Experience Harper were married, the magistrates of Massachusetts undertook without due process of law to release bondservants and cancel articles of apprenticeship, where the masters were Quakers. In the execution of some such ex-party order the sheriff was soundly thrashed by Joseph Hull, who, for so doing was fined seven pounds. This fine, for some unstated reason, was abated at a subsequent session of the court.

Soon after the occurance above noted, Joseph Hull sold the estate at Barnstable, which had been devised to him by his father, to one John Lathrop, and settled on land he had purchased at Little Harbor, South Kingston, R. I. In 1678 he increased his holdings at Little Harbor by an additional tract for which he paid one hundred and five pounds, and in 1685 he and his father-in-law were granted authority to take up additional tracts in the eastern section of the town.

At the election held May 3, 1699, he was chosen Assistant in the Government of Rhode Island, an office corresponding in dignity with that of State Senator at the present time. On May 6, 1701, he was again chosen to the same office. At a General Assembly held March 22, 1709, the sum of sixteen pounds and ten shillings was voted him as a gratuity for the good service and charge he had been at in promoting the interest of the colony.

The first houses of any pretention built in the Narragansett country were at Tower Hill, the capital of King's Province, which was at one time called Rochester, and which became and remained South Kingston. One of the first and largest of these dwellings was that of Joseph Hull.

The Narragansett Monthly Meeting of Friends residing in the territory embracing Providence, Warwick, Greenwich and Kingston, was established in 1699. Joseph Hull had now become a speaker or preacher, and the First day and weekly meetings were held in his spacious dwelling until the latter part of the following year, when the society's Meeting House, though not yet finished, was ready to worship in.

There is a tradition connected with this old Hull house at Narragansett which runs in this wise: A daughter of the host had been married during the day, and when in the evening the friends were celebrating the event, a rejected suitor approached in the darkness a window where the newly wedded couple stood conversing, and placing the muzzle of his gun within a few feet of the bride sent a bullet through her heart.

Somewhere on Tower Hill farm there is said to be a burial plot, which can not now be located with any certainity, in which Joseph Hull's body rests surrounded by those of several generations of his descendants.

The ancient Friends' records have been lost and we have learned the names of but five of his large family of

29. Capt. John Hull, 1654-1733, of London, England, and Newport and Connonicut, R. I., son of (4) Capt. Tristram Hull and his wife Blanche, was married Oct. 23, 1684 at Horseleydown meeting of Friends, in Southwalk, London, to Alice Tiddeman, 1659-1734, daughter of Capt. Edmund Tiddeman, who was a resident of the Parish of Mary St. Magdelen's, Burmundy, Southwickshire, and a member of the Horseleydown meeting.

Capt. John Hull from early life followed the sea, and for many years sailed his father's and his own ships between Newport and London, and acquired lasting fame as a navigator in both England and America. He was the master, instructor, and friend of one of the most successful naval commanders in English history—the well-known "Quaker Admiral," the Right Hon. Sir Charles Wager, Admiral of the White, First Lord of the Admiralty and Privy Councillor.

Capt. Edmund Tiddeman's name appears in a list of "sufferers and gallant standard bearers" given in Besse's great book. In July, 1670, the Horseleydown Friends' meeting house was demolished by order of the King in council, and Sir Christopher Wren, England's greatest church architect, superintended the destruction of the humble place of worship. Thereafter private or "silent" meetings for worship were held in the house of Capt. Tiddeman until their meeting house was rebuilt as it now stands. In 1672 Capt. Tiddeman traveled in company with William Penn on a religious visit through Kent County. He was in prison in 1683, but was released before the marriage of his daughter Alice to Capt. John Hull, in 1684, at which date 1460 Friends were lying in the common jails of the counties of England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland. At about this period Capt. Tiddeman purchased a tract of more than 700 acres of land in Burlington Co., N. J., no doubt with a view of emigrating and settling there, but he never came to this country, and the land in question passed through his daughter Alice to her son, Joseph Hull.

Capt. John and Alice Tiddeman Hull remained in London for about two years after their marriage. Then they removed to Newport, R. I., bringing with them a certificate from the monthly meeting at Horseleydown, dated 27th of 2nd month 1687, certifying that while resident there "they behaved themselves in their lives and conversations as becometh friends of the Blessed Truth."

They had been in Newport but a short time when Capt. Hull purchased a plantation of 370 acres on the north end of Connonicut Island, in Narragansett Bay, and there built a mansion which eventually became their permanent home. This mansion was burned by the British in the winter of 1775-6, but was rebuilt and is still occupied by his descendants, and is known as the Old Hull Place.

Capt. Hull was admitted a freeman of the colony May 6, 1690, and was deputy to the General Assembly of Rhode Island in 1698, 1706, 1707 and 1709, representing Connonicut (Jamestown). He held the local offices of councilman and assessor; was town clerk in 1695 and again in 1704, and became head warden of Jamestown in 1712.

He died at Connonicut, and by his will dated Jan. 19, 1732, a large property was distributed among his heirs. Farms were given to each of his three sons; an ample life interest was secured to his wife, and a large residuary estate in lands and personalty was divided in equal shares among all his children and the heirs of deceased children.

Alice Tiddeman Hull survived her husband but a short time. She died Oct. 24, 1734. In her will she disposed of her property by equal division among her children. She was reputed to be "a lady of great dignity and amiability of character."

53. JUDGE BENJAMIN HULL, 1693-1745, of Piscataway, Middlesex Co., N. J., son of (9) Hopewell and Mary Martin Hull, was born several months after the death of his father. He was married to Elizabeth Slater, 1697——, daughter of Edward Slater and his wife Elizabeth Burnham, but left no children. He took an intelligent interest in public affairs, held the office of Judge, and was a prominent citizen and successful man of affairs. By his will dated Mar. 9, 1744, and probated Mar. 27, 1745, he conveys to his wife a certain piece of land, his slaves, and the remainder of his estate after the following bequests have been satisfied.

To Brother Hopewell Hull, 20 shillings.
To Nephiew John, oldest son of brother Hopewell, 20 shillings.
To Cousin Thomas Davis, a certain new dwelling house.
To Cousin Benjamin Doty, a certain plantation.
To Cousin Mary Davis, 20 acres of land.
To John King, who formerly lived with him, 30 pounds.
To Eleanor, wife of Charles Rowelson, of Perth Amboy, 15 pounds.
To Cousin Samuel Davis, 10 pounds when 21.
To Daniel Blatchford, Jr., of New Milford, Somerset Co., 10 pounds.

In 1895 Mr. O. B. Leonard copied from a well-preserved slab in the Piscataqua Township graveyard, this inscription:

"Here lieth the body of
BENJAMIN HULL, Esq.,
Born July the nineteenth 1693,
Dece' March the 13th, 1745.
Though I a judge did sit all Justice for to give,
Now from this world have gone the same for to receive."

55. GRACE HULL, 1672——, daughter of (10) Capt. Benjamin Hull and his wife Rachel York, was married in 1692 to Nicholas Fitz Randolph, whose first wife was Mary Holway (Holly) a sister of Joseph Holly, Jr., the husband of (25) Mary Hull Holly.

56. JOSEPH HULL, 1674-1743, son of (10) Capt. Benjamin and Rachel York Hull, had three wives. The name of his first wife, who probably died after 1702, has not been ascertained. The maiden name of his second wife was Hannah Stapley. Of his third wife we know only that her Christian name was Frances. For a short time after his first marriage he appears to have resided in the Township of Oxford in the present County of Warren, and then to have moved to Hartford County, Maryland, where his children were born and reared; but after the death of his father, who died well advanced in years, leaving a considerable landed estate, he returned to New Jersey, bringing with him his son Benjamin, who married late in life, became a successful farmer and reared a large family. The records have been discovered of but three of Joseph Hull's

59. ENSIGN BENJAMIN HULL, 1680-1732, of Piscataway, Middlesex Co., N. J., yeoman, son of (10) Capt. Benjamin and Rachel York Hull, was married in 1704 to Sarah Drake, 1686-17——, daughter of Rev. John Drake and his wife Rebecca Trotter, who was the daughter of William Trotter and his wife Catherine Gibbs, who was said to have been one of the first eighty settlers of Elizabethtown, N. J. The Rev. John Drake was a son of Capt. Francis Drake and his wife Mary of Piscataway. Capt. Drake was a son of Robert Drake of Portsmouth and Exeter, N. H. Sometime before 1740 Benjamin Hull's widow, Sarah Drake Hull, was married to her second husband, Israel Folsom.

Benjamin Hull was commissioned Ensign of the Piscataway Military Company No. 4, of Col. Thomas Farmer's Regt. of N. J., in 1713. By his will, dated June 5, 1731 and probated Jan. 4, 1733, he conveys to his wife Sarah the benefit of his home lot and one third of his movable estate; to his oldest son Joseph, ten shillings, and each of the remaining five sons a one-fifth interest in certain real estate. No mention is made of any one of his five daughters. This would indicate that those of the number who had not married and received marriage dowers had died unmarried previous to the making of said will.

93. Dr. Tiddeman Hull, 1690-17—, of Connonicut Island (now Jamestown), R. I., son of (29) Capt. John and Alice Tiddeman Hull, was married Mar. 10, 1710-11, to Sarah Sands, only child and heiress of Edward Sands (or Sandys) of Block Island.

Dr. Hull represented Jamestown in the General Assembly in 1715, 1717, 1722, 1725, 1731 and 1739, and was a magistrate and warden of the Island. In 1742 he visited England, carrying a letter of introduction from Governor Ward of Rhode Island to Hon. Mr. Partridge in London. In this letter Governor Ward says: "Dr. Tiddeman Hull, the bearer hereof, being bound for London, in order that you may know the character of ye gentleman, I inform you that he is the son of Capt. John Hull, late of this colony, under whom Sir Charles Wager was educated, and has the character of an honest man. He has sustained the post of a Justice of the Peace divers years amongst us, and has been several times, formerly and laterly, a representative from the town of Jamestown. He is of a facetious temper and has a fair interest in lands." Mr. Partridge acknowledged this letter July 8, 1742, and informed the Governor that Dr. Hull had newly arrived from Holland, the vessel in which he sailed from Rhode Island having been cast away and lost with her cargo, the crew and passengers all being saved.

Sarah Sands, the wife of Dr. Hull, inherited the Sands Homestead on Block Island, and their descendants enjoyed great consideration in those parts for several generations.

95. Capt. John Hull, 1694-1765, mariner and farmer, of Connonicut Island (now Jamestown), R. I., son of (29) Capt. John and Alice Tiddeman Hull, was married Apr. 3, 1726, to Demaris Cary, daughter of John Cary and his wife Damaris Arnold of Bridgewater, Mass. He was a Captain in the merchant service. Warrants were offered to him and to his brothers to positions of prominence in the Royal Navy. These were declined, father and son preferring to remain consistent friends and pursue their avocations with the pacific principles they professed. Capt. Hull was made a freeman May 3, 1720, and became a prosperous business man and farmer as well as a successful mariner. In 1751 he was a deputy to the Grand Assembly and for many years enjoyed exclusive berry privileges between Newport and Jamestown. As he advanced in years he kept adding to the acres inherited from his father and died possessed of a large estate.

Capt. Hull and Damaris Cary were married "out of meeting," her family being Congregationalists. The ceremony was performed by Capt. Hull's brother, Dr. Tiddeman Hull, then Chief Magistrate and Warden of the Island.

John Cary, the father of Mrs. Hull, was the son of John Cary and his wife Abigail Allen of Bridgewater and the grandson of John Carey, or Carew, and his wife Elisabeth Godfrey, who came from Somersetshire, England, to Bridgewater, R. I., in 1634. The first John Carew was born near Bristol, England, about 1605; was liberally educated in France; for many years was the town clerk of Bridgewater, and was one of the first instructors in Latin to teach in the schools of America.

Damaris Arnold, the wife of John Cary and mother of Demaris Cary Hull, was the daughter of Oliver Arnold and his wife Phebe Cook of Jamestown.

Oliver Arnold was the son of Governor Benedict Arnold and his wife Damaris Wescott of Providence.

Governor Benedict Arnold was an assistant for several years before he became governor, and was reputed to be the richest man in the colony.

William Arnold, father of Governor Arnold, came from England to Hingham, New England, in 1635, and was one of the twelve associates of Roger Williams in the founding of Providence Plantation in 1636.

Abigail Allyn Cary, the grandmother of Damaris Cary Hull, was the daughter of Samuel Allyn of Braintree, Mass., and he was the son of George Allyn, Sr., who sailed with Rev. Joseph Hull from Weymouth, Mar. 20, 1635.

Elizabeth Godfrey Hull, the great grandmother of Damaris Cary Hull was the only child of Francis Godfrey and his wife Elizabeth, who settled in Duxbury before 1638, and soon removed to Bridgewater.

Damaris Wescott, the great grandmother of Damaris Cary Hull, was the daughter of Stukeley Wescott who settled at Salem in 1636, joined the Baptists, and was excommunicated with Roger Williams, who names him as his first grantee in his deed to his twelve associates. He died at Warwick, R. I., Jan. 12, 1678.

The will of Capt. John Hull, dated 20th Nov., 1759, with a codicil dated 30th of July, 1762, is recorded under date of April 6, 1765, in "Jamestown Book for Town Council beginning in 1744," and reads as follows:

Last Will and Testament of John Hull of Jamestown, County Newport, and Colony of Rhode Island, being of perfect mind, memory and understanding, thanks be to God for it—calling to mind the mortality of my body and being desirous to settle my estate, so as to have my family in peace and quiet, do make this my last Will and Testament. Principally and first of all I recommend my Soul to God who gave it, and my body to the earth to be decently buried at the discretion of my Executrix hereinafter named. And as touching such temporal and worldly estates as it hath pleased God to bless me with in this life—I give and dispose of in the manner and form following:

Imprimus—That all such just and lawful debts which I owe to any person, together with my funeral charges, to be answered and paid by my Executrix hereinafter named, within convenient time after my decease.

Item—I give to my son Oliver Hull all that my farm which is in part of Holly swamp farm which lieth between land that was formerly my brother Tiddeman Hull's, and land belonging to my brother Joseph Hull, to him and to his heirs and assigns forever.

Item—I give to my son Tiddeman Hull all my land in Greenwich at a place called Miami Neck in Connecticut Government, containing 30 acres be it more or less. I also give to my son Tiddeman the sum of Two Hundred Pounds New York Money, which money he has in his hands, to him, his heirs and assigns forever.

Item—I give to my son Joseph Hull, fifty seven acres of land at the east end of Sorril farm, so called, that lieth south of my brother Joseph Hull's land, to him, his heirs and assigns forever.

Item—I give to my son John Hull, all the remainder of the Mount Sorril farm at the west end which will be about thirty-three acres, joining west on Mackrill cove, and north on my brother Joseph Hull's land, to him, his heirs and assigns forever. Also I give to my son John twelve acres of land, be it more or less, which is part of that called the Ele Pond farm, adjoining eastring on a lane which leads to Arnold Beach, where was formerly a tan yard, to him, his heirs and assigns forever.

Item—I give to my son Wager Hull, the house and lot I now live on and the township lot to the eastward of John Martin's land which lot contains about seven acres, be the same more or less. Also I give to my son Wager a lot of land of ten acres which joins northerly on the highway that leads from ferry to ferry, easterly on William Hazard's land, all such land to him, his heirs and assigns forever.

Item—I give to my four sons, namely, Oliver, Joseph, John and Wager, all my right of land on Dutch Island, to be equally divided between the four, to them and their heirs and assigns forever.

Item—I give to my daughter Phebe Hazard one dollar besides what I have already given her.

Item—I give to my daughter Alice Hyatt one dollar beside what I have already given her.

Item—I give to my daughter Hannah Weeden one dollar beside what I have already given her.

Item—I give to my daughter Mary Underwood fifteen pounds New York money to be paid to her by my executrix two years after my decease.

Item—I give to my daughter Damaris Fowler fifteen pounds New York money to be paid to her by my executrix two years after my decease.

Item—I give to my daughter Freelove Hull ten pounds New York money to be paid to her by my executrix two years after my decease.

Item—I give to my daughter Catherine Hull fifteen pounds New York money to be paid to her by my executrix two years after my decease.

Item—I give to my daughter Sarah Hull fifteen pounds New York money to be paid to her by my executrix two years after my decease.

Item—I give to my beloved wife Damaris Hull my lot of land that lyeth between John Martin's land and James Carr's land, joins northerly on the highway that leads from ferry to ferry, containing about one quarter of an acre be it more or less, which lot I give to her, her heirs and assigns forever, and at her own disposing. Also I order my executrix hereinafter named to get in the money that is due me with the movable stock and to pay all my just debts and legacies, and what shall remain of my movable estate after all is paid and discharged I give to my beloved wife. Further my will is that my wife have the use of all my house and lot I now live on, until my son Wager comes of the age of 21 years. Finally I do appoint and ordain my beloved wife Damaris Hull to be the sole executrix of this my last will and testament. I have herewith set my hand and affixed my seal this twentieth day of November in the year of our Lord 1759.

JOHN HULL.

Signed, sealed, pronounced and delivered in the presence of

JOHN MARTIN,
MARY EASTORS,
JAMES EASTORS.

The son John Hull having died before his father his share is an annexed codicil devised to his brothers.

152. JOHN HULL, 1706-17—, of Amboy, Middlesex Co., N. J., son of (50) Hopewell Hull and his wife Lydia, was a builder and owner of small sailing vessels. Unquestionably he is the John Hull referred to in the following news item which appeared in the Boston News Letter under date of Feb. 3, 1737:

"New York, Jan 4—We hear from Amboy that about ten days ago one John Hull sent his boat about the distance of ten miles for a load of wood, and on coming back it blew so hard that she was forced to come to anchor under Stratton Island, and in the night she was drove from thence. Next morning she was seen with her mast broke upon an island, and from thence it's supposed she is drove out by Sandy Hook to the sea and is lost. It is said there were three passengers on said boat beside the boatmen."

156. HOPEWELL HULL, 1711-1791, son of (50) Hopewell Hull and his wife Lydia, was married to Isabella Reid. They lived near Matawan, Monmouth Co., several miles southward of New Brunswick, N. J. By his will dated Jan. 10, and probated Feb. 16, 1791, Hopewell Hull conveys his property to his wife, their children and grandchildren. Among the special bequests mentioned we find: "a horse, riding chair and negress" to his wife Isabella; "250 acre plantation on which he dwells and 5 acres of salt meadow adjoining Raritan River" to his oldest son James; "interest on 250 pounds" to daughter Anne, wife of Garrett Hagerman, which at her death goes to her children; "70 pounds each" to Lydia Hull and Rebecca Hull, children of his son Benjamin; "150 pounds" to his son John; and "100 pounds and a house and lot when he comes of age" to his grandson James.

172. BENJAMIN HULL, 1702-1792, yeoman, of Baleville, Newtown township, Sussex Co., N. J., son of (56) Joseph Hull, was married in 1748 to Ann Duer, daughter of a well-to-do yeoman residing on the highway leading from Newtown to Sparta. Benjamin Hull was the owner of two large farms, one of which during the latter part of his life was conducted as a dairy farm by his unmarried daughters. He is described, when over 80 years of age, as a large, noble-looking man, somewhat bent, with his hair hanging in a cue far down his back and with eyes filled with good nature.

Ann Duer at the date of her marriage to Benjamin Hull could not have been over 25 years of age and may have been considerably younger. According to one of her descendants she was a small delicate-looking woman, and when well advanced in years was full of activity and possessed of an abundance of good sense. Some years after the death of her husband she began the erection of a church, but died before it was completed.

Benjamin Hull in his will which is dated Apr. 6, 1790, and was probated Aug. 27, 1792, mentions by name, and leaves a specified portion of his estate to each one of his fourteen children, but makes no mention whatever of his wife, either as a legatee or in the management and settlement of same. This fact taken in connection with the circumstances that he did not marry until he was 46 years of age, and that in naming his children he did not follow the then prevailing custom of perpetuating the names of of his ancestors and near kinsmen, would indicate that he may have been a bit eccentric or independent in the conducting of his personal affairs.

186. (JUDGE JOSEPH HULL, about 1706-1768, son of (59) Benjamin and Sarah Drake Hull, was married first Dec. 22, 1730 to Susanna Stelle, 1710——, daughter of Rev. Benjamin Stelle, 1638-1759, and his wife Mercy Drake, daughter of George Drake and his wife Mary Oliver. George was son of Capt. Francis Drake and brother of Rev. John Drake.

Joseph Hull's second wife was Phebe Hunt. He was born in Piscataway, Middlesex Co., lived for some time after his marriage in Peapack, Somerset Co., and not far from 1645 settled permanently at Newton, Sussex Co., all in New Jersey. From 1754 to 1761 he was a justice of the peace, and in 1761 was appointed by King George III. one of the Justices of the Court of Common Pleas for Sussex County, serving as such for several years, apparently to the time of his death.

In records at Trenton there is a document recorded as a part of or in connection with his father's will which gives said Joseph Hull authority to sell certain interests in lands situated in old Piscataway and divers other places in New England which his said father Benjamin Hull was entitled to as heir in law to his father Benjamin Hull formerly of old Piscataway aforesaid.

There is also in records of deeds at Trenton a document dated May 16, 1737, and acknowledged Oct. 12, 1738, by which Joseph Hull, then of Somerset Co., with the free consent of his wife Susanna, resigns all right as son and heir of Benjamin Hull, deceased late of Piscataway, to home lot of his late father, to widow Sarah Hull; also all right to certain land of said father to the five other sons, Benjamin, Tristram, Jacob, Reuben and Meshach.

In 1752 Joseph Hull, then a resident of Newton, Sussex Co., purchased of Henry Coates an improved farm in said town of Newton containing 133.70 acres, and presented the same to his oldest son Isaac, who had just been married to Ann Dunham.

Judge Joseph Hull's will is dated Feb. 27, 1765, and was probated Sept. 1, 1768. In it he names his children Isaac, Mercy Hunt, Stelle, Samuel, Jacob and David, giving to each one the sum of One Pound. To his daughter-in-law, Abigail Carpenter, he leaves ten pounds, the remaining provisions reading as follows:

> 9th. It is my Will and Desire that after the above is paid and discharged that my beloved wife Phebe have one Third part of all my estate Real and Personal, also my Pacing Gray Mare and womans saddle and also the free use of a bed containing 50 lbs. of feathers, with one boulster, two pillows, cases, a pair of sheets, rug and blanket, until my daughter Sarah's decease or until she arrives at the age of eighteen years; or in case of the death of my wife then the bed and all belonging thereto, to be immediately delivered to the care of my executors hereinafter mentioned.

11th. It is my Will and Desire . . . that the remainder of my estate be and remain my daughter Sara's together with the bed above mentioned, but in case of her decease, and without issue, then it must be equally divided share and share alike, among my sons Stelle Hull, Samuel Hull, Jacob Hull and David Hull. . . . It is my desire that in case of my decease before my son David is bound out that my executors do bind him out to some good master to learn some good trade.

Further proof of the location of Judge Joseph Hull and his son, Sheriff Isaac Hull in Sussex Co., N. J., is found in an original record at Trenton, N. J., made May 9, 1764. "Isaac Hull witness appeared before me, Joseph Hull, one of the Judges of his Majestie's Inferiour Court of Common Pleas, in and for the county of Sussex."

314. OLIVER HULL, 1732-1803, of New York City, son of (95) Capt. John and Damaris Cary Hull, was married first May 19, 1751 to Penelope Fones (d. 1795), daughter of Joseph Fones and his wife Penelope of Jamestown, R. I. His second wife was Hannah Field, whom he married at Purchase, N. Y., November 16, 1796.

Oliver Hull was born and married at Jamestown, but before 1770 became a resident of New York City, and was there engaged with his brother Joseph in commercial pursuits. Oliver Hull was an Elder in the Society of Friends. The "Book of the Hulls" by his grandson, the late Oliver Hull of New York City, gives some account of his religious life, his trials during the Revolution, and the philanthropic efforts put forth by him and his brother for the relief of the patriots then held as prisoners in the Provost and the Middle Dutch and Sugar House prisons.

After the war he and his son John Hull were engaged in business as Importers and Wholesale Druggists under the firm name of Oliver Hull and Son.

It is a matter of record that Thomas Fones, apothecary at the Three Fawns, Old Bailey, London, married Anna Winthrop, the sister of John Winthrop, Governor of Massachusetts Bay Colony. They had a son Samuel, who was the father of John Fones, gentleman, who came to New England and settled at Kingston in 1669, was Clerk of his Majesty's Commission, Recorder of Narragansett Province, a Captain in the forces, and his Majesty's Justice of the Peace in 1683. This John Fones, gentleman, had a son Jeremiah, who was the father of Joseph Fones, whose daughter Penelope became the wife of Oliver Hull and the mother of his six 636. HENRY HULL, 1765-1834, farmer and merchant, of Stanfordville, Westchester Co., N. Y., son of (316) Tiddeman and Elizabeth Franklin Hull, was married in 1785 to Sarah Hallock, and before 1818 to Sarah Cooper, daughter of Samuel Cooper and his wife Prudence Brown of Cooper's Point, N. J.

Henry Hull and his first wife, Sarah Hallock, were both eminent ministers in the Society of Friends His second wife, Sarah Cooper, was an elder and for many years clerk of the woman's meeting.

At the breaking out of the Revolution, his father abandoned business in New York City and retired with his family to Harrisons Purchase, in Westchester County. After the battle of White Plains their house was so filled with the sick and wounded soldiers that they were obliged to vacate it and take refuge with their uncle Joseph Hull at "Peach Pond" farm in Dutchess County. In 1777 his father purchased the farm and mills in the town of Stamford, now the post town of "Hulls Mills," and soon after built a fulling mill.

Henry Hull was associated with his brother John F. Hull as country merchants in Stanfordville, and jointly they re-published many Friends' books and other works. In 1786 he began his journal and appeared in the ministry and until his death traveled extensively in the United States and Canada. In February, 1810, he went to England and was received with great consideration by Friends in Great Britain and Ireland. He died while on a religious visit to the meetings of Ohio and was buried at Stillwater in that state.

650. WAGER HULL, 1779-1849, manufacturer, of New York City, son of (317) Joseph and Phebe Palmer Hull, was married Oct. 8, 1801, in Burlington Meeting of Friends, to Elizabeth Cox, 1779——, daughter of Samuel Cox and his wife Sarah Emsley, of Moorstown, N. J. He was the youngest son of a large family, and after receiving such education as was then to be obtained in private schools, joined his elder brother in New York City. As tallow chandlers and toilet and laundry soap makers, their business had rapidly grown to large proportions, and for many years was almost a monopoly in the hands of several of the family. Branching off from the older house, he securely established himself in business before his marriage and founded the house known in domestic and foreign trade as Wager Hull, Hull & Berling, Wager Hull & Son, Wager Hull's Son, John C. Hull & Sons and J. C. Hull's Sons. They were large exporters and shippers of their own products. The house after an existence of nearly one hundred years ceased operations only when the main branch of their industry was driven from the market by the introduction of illuminating gas and the discovery of oil wells.

Wager Hull was devotedly attached to the religious opinions, doctrines and principles as held by his pious ancestors who for several generations had been members of the Society of Friends. Before and after the great schism in the society, he maintained a consistent position, and joined with the orthodox branch at the time of the separation.

Throughout life he was wise and zealous in every form of church work and active in charitable and reformatory projects. He was a student of church history and particularly conversant with the histories of Quaker and Puritan. In several controversies concerning both doctrine and history he held his own with much dexterity. As an epistle writer he was master of the best style then affected and approved by Friends. Living in the days of the decline of Quakerism he advocated some modification of their "discipline," and a more liberal and enlightened interpretation of their "law." Cant and bigotry and its other phase, hypocrisy, he despised and reproved, whether displayed by Quaker or Churchman. The following is condensed from an obituary notice which appeared in the New York Tribune of August 22, 1849:

For nearly half a century he has sustained the social and business relations of an honorable and upright man in this community. . . . The history of his mercantile career presents a rare exception to the ordinary maxims and habits of trade. It has been well remarked by one who was well acquainted with the ruling principles of his conduct, that extraordinary uprightness and freedom from selfishness alone prevented his becoming a man of great wealth. The opportunity was before him, and it was necessary only that he stretch out his hand to seize it; but he chose happiness and an approving conscience rather than superfluous riches.

The temptations of gain could not seduce him from the course dictated by moderate desires and confirmed by deliberate judgment. . . . . Equanimity of disposition was one of the most marked traits of his character. He was a stranger to passion and resentment, even under circumstances of great trial and injury. . . . . He was a man of unostentatious benevolence, with a hand always open, and willing to relieve the wants of the poor; and the possession of an income equal to his desires enabled him to fulfill, in this respect, the duties of a brother and a christian. . . . As a religious man, he was free from all color of bigotry. The faithful observance of the duties of christian worship, according to his own convictions of right, did not prevent him from treating with entire respect different opinions and modes of service conscientiously adhered to by others. He regarded conduct, not profssion, as the true test of devotion and love of God. . . . . In the life of such a man, there is more to command a sincere admiration than he claimed for the most brilliant success in public station, or in the tempting field of commercial enterprise; fame and riches win the applause of the world, while real worth is overlooked and neglected; but the actions of men live after them, and although their names may be unknown to history, the most grateful memories are of the unostentatious good.

Wager Hull died at his residence at Mt. Vernon, East River, New York City, after a short and severe illness. He left a fair estate quite ample to meet all the real and many of the imaginary requirements of the generation succeeding him.

He was born at Chestertown, Md., and when about twelve years of age, his father having met with financial reverses, went to live with a relative who soon afterward removed from Maryland to an extensive plantation bordering on the Pedee river in North Carolina. On the breaking out of the Revolution he enlisted in the South Carolina Artillery regiment of the Continenal Army, and remained in the service to the end of the long conflict. An interesting sketch of his life, written by his son William Christie Hull, was published in 1902 by his descendant, Joseph Talcott, Esq., of Brooklyn, N. Y.

His second wife was Mrs. Gillespie Wright. In 1805 the family, then consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Hull and their two children, Daniel and Catherine, traveled overland to their new home in what was then the far west, now Licking Co., O. In this journey, according to family tradition, Mr. Hull and the two children rode in a wagon drawn by four horses, which doubtless contained their household goods, and Mrs. Hull rode along on her favorite saddle horse. The History of Licking County states that William Hull took a prominent part in public affairs, served several terms in the State Legislature, and for 20 years was a Justice of the Peace, often holding court in his own house in the presence of his family and neighbors. He gave to each of his eight children when they were married a farm and household outfit. The bodies of both Mr. and Mrs. Hull were laid to rest in the private God's Acre, on the farm they first settled.

Mr. Hull was born in New York City. When he was about four years of age his father moved with his family to the town of Stanford, Dutchess County, N. Y., where there was a settlement of Friends, many of whom were relatives. He received his early education in a boarding school, conducted by Friends at Nine Pardners in the same county, which he attended until he was fourteen years of age. Then he was sent to New York to learn the drug business with his brother-in-law, Richard Bowne, whose place of business was at 147 Pearl Street. There he continued his studies, giving special attention to chemistry and attending lectures as opportunities offered on a wide field of scientific subjects. Shortly after reaching his majority he became a member of the firm he had faithfully served. Meantime he had graduated from the New York College of Pharmacy, of which in 1838 he became first vice-president, and before which he subsequently delivered a course of lectures on Medical Botany. He was a life member of the New York Mercantile Library Association, and was connected with various other societies and organizations, including the American Pharmaceutical Association, the Society Library Association of New York, and the Masonic Fraternity. In 1845 he moved to the city of Brooklyn, and became associated with the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences and the Natural History Society, in both of which he took an active interest, serving at one time as vice-president of the former.

1826. MAJOR JOHN HULL, 1788-1851, of Montague, Sussex Co., N. J., and Lewiston, Niagara Co., N. Y., son of (950) John and Susan Vaughn Hull, was married first to Catherine Westbrook, 1789-1834, daughter of Wilhelmus Westbrook and his wife Elsie Jobs, widow of Joseph Jobs, who was killed by the Indians. Maj. Hull's second wife was Anne Scott, daughter of John Scott, of Philadelphia, Pa. The following is taken from a letter written by Mr. Brittain A. Westbrook, 83 years of age, of Branchville, N. J.:

"Major Hull followed no special line of business, only looking after property acquired by his wives. His dress was that of a minister, white tie and black clothes. . . . . He was butting up against James Scott, a shrewd, energetic merchant, who eventually got all the property Hull had in Montague. . . . . Hull when I knew him first was living with his second wife, whom he married while in the legislature. . . . . I have in my possession a duplicate of taxes for 97 acres made by my father, his son Lewis, assessed as a single man. He acquired some property from a relative in Canada, and bought a farm at Lewiston, N. Y., and moved there. His son Lewis, the worker of the family, came in possession of it later. His widow returned to her kindred in Middlesex Co., N. J."

When about six years of age the family moved to Michigan, and five years later he was an orphan. Having now to look out for himself, he went to live with a Mr. Samuel Healey, with whom he remained until he was fifteen years of age, after which he learned to work in both wood and iron, and became a skilled wagonmaker and blacksmith. In 1859 he became a member of the Baptist Church in which he was ordained to the ministry, but five years later withdrew and united with the Christian Church. He is reputed to have been an able and convincing preacher and frequently exercised his gifts, but never took a settled pastorate or accepted a single dollar for such service. He was an enthusiastic member of the I. O. O. F. and for three terms served as Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of the state of Kansas. During the later years of his life he has conducted the business of blacksmithing and wagonmaking at Concordia, Kansas, where he also for several years filled most acceptably the position of Engineer of the city waterworks.

"He was born in Monroe County, N. Y., and moved with his parents to the then new state of Michigan in 1838. Inside of three years he was left an orphan, from which time until 1848 he lived with Austin Converse of Bridgewater, Mich. After two years in the printing office of the Ann Arbor Argus, he went to Centerville, Mich., and leased the St. Joseph County Advertiser, which he purchased and moved to Constantine in 1851. From this time until his death he was continuously editor and proprietor of this newspaper. He was town clerk for twenty years, member of school board twenty-three years, justice of the peace, member of the constitutional convention of 1867, assistant assessor of internal revenue until that office was abolished, collector of internal revenue for the second district of Michigan during Grant's second term, and for eleven years thereafter deputy collector of internal revenue of the same district."

At the beginning of the Civil War he was practicing his profession with success, but soon entered the Regular United States Army, his official record in which reads as follows:

"Hull, Robert Bowne, N. Y. N. Y. 1st Lieut. 18th infantry 14 May 1861; Capt. 25 Oct. 1861; brevet Major 31 Dec. 1862, for gallant and meritorious service at Battle of Murfreesboro, Tenn., and Lieut. Colonel 1 Sept. 1864, for gallant and meritorious service during the Atlanta campaign and in the battle of Jonesboro, Ga.; honorably discharged 28 Aug. 1870, at his own request."

He was severely wounded at the Battle of Stone River, Dec. 31, 1862, and commanded his regiment during the greater part of the Atlanta campaign. Three of his official reports are printed in full in Vol. XXXVIII, Series 1, Rebellion Records; and in Vol. XX of the same work he is highly commended by his brigade and division commanders.

Fox in his "Regimental Losses in the American Civil War, gives to the 18th U. S. Infantry the credit of doing more effective fighting and suffering greater losses than any other regiment in the Regular Army.

Colonel Hull's admirable sketch of the life and times of the Reverend Joseph Hull, his revered colonist ancestor, which Mr. James W. Hull of Pittsfield had published in 1898, is an unusually valuable contribution to early New England history, as well as a credit to its accomplished and painstaking author.

3607. GEORGE WASHINGTON HULL, 1824-1891, banker, of Bucyrus, O., son of (1825) Benjamin and Elizabeth Smith Hull, was married Jan. 9, 1845, to Artimissa Scribner, 1826-1893, daughter of Samuel Scribner and his wife Almira Clark. In 1828 his parents moved from Delaware Co., Ohio, where he was born, to Whetstone Township, Crawford Co., and settled on a farm, where they lived until he was eleven years old. He remembered the luxuries (?) of pioneer days, when he wore buckskin pants and a coonskin cap, and was glad to get them. He went to school in a log cabin with a dirt floor and greased paper windows; was treed once by wild hogs; a bear was killed in their dooryard; a panther which he saw was killed near his home. The family moved back to Delaware County and settled in Radnor Township, where his mother died when he was fifteen years old. He then began caring for himself by working on a farm at ten dollars a month. With his first earnings he bought forty acres of land. At the age of twenty he was married. He lived in Delaware County until 1855 when he moved to and settled near Cardington, in Morrow County, on a purchase of 250 acres of fine land. To this he subsequently added 550 acres, which gave him a splendid farm of 800 acres on Show creek, a very productive region. In 1877 he was possessor of 1500 acres in the counties of Crawford, Morrow and Wyandot. In the stirring times before the war, when the underground railway was in successful operation through Ohio, he was one of its most zealous supporters and trusted agents. He was fond of telling thrilling stories of risks he encountered and hair-breadth escapes in the running of live freight over this mysterious railway. In April, 1877, he went to Bucyrus and opened the Crawford County Bank, which subsequently became The Second National Bank. On Jan. 1, 1879, he opened The Farners' Bank of Findley, Ohio, becoming a one-third owner of it, and assisted in organizing the stock company which built the Crawford County Elevator. He was County Commissioner of Morrow County and for twelve years was a Justice of the Peace. For fifty years he was a respected member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in which he served as Steward and Class Leader. See History of Crawford Co., O., issued in 1891, page 753.

4047. CHARLES JERROLD HULL, 1820-1889, of Manchester, Conn., and Chicago, Ill., son of (2031) Benjamin and Sarah Morley Hull, was married April 28, 1846, to Millicent Ann Coe Loomis, of East Bethany, Genesee Co., N. Y. Charles Jerrold Hull was a writer and a philanthropist in its broadest sense. He began life under adverse circumstances. His mother died at his birth. She named him and gave him to her mother. For over seventeen years he was a gamim of chance, being exposed to unfavorable associations in early life, and to the dangers of a strong self-will, inherited from his father, whom he saw but once, in later life, and whose example proved a valuable legacy in resisting temptation and evil. Under the influence of his grandmother Hull, his future life was shaped. He says of her, "She was my protector, guide and counsellor." His neglected youth gave energy to new purpose. Feeling keenly the lack of education he determined to secure one. After learning to read, he mastered arithmetic in three months, and with three months' schooling, had in 1838, secured a teacher's certificate, which soon after was changed to a State certificate. In 1839 he toured the states of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, prospecting. After his marriage in 1846, he settled in Chicago, seeing the great possibilities of the future there. He engaged in different enterprises, continuing the study of law and medicine. In 1851 he received the degree of M. D. from Rush College, and in 1853 received from Harvard Law School his degree, and began the practice of law. He failed twice financially and remade his fortune, of which he gave liberally, with personal labor and time for over twenty years toward elevating the poor and criminal classes. His Sabbaths for more than eight years, were spent in speaking in prisons. Intemperance was his bitter foe. Hull house in Chicago was his palatial home, and stands as a monument to a small portion of his life work. It is known as "The Hull House Social Settlement," sheltering motley nationalities and creeds.

Other philanthropies and educational interests were liberally remembered. With $1,000,000 he endowed the Biological Department of the University of Chicago. He endowed a chair in Oberlin College in memory of his daughter, Fredrika Bremer Hull, a graduate of that institution, who had entered upon the work of her father. His last years were lonely ones, as all of his family had died. He felt keenly the loss of a promising son and daughter. Of his daughter he says in his "Reflections": "Her farewell was sublime, without fear, and a grand Christian triumph."

Allen Henry Bagg was born at Pittsfield and educated in its public schools. For twenty-two years he was employed as a clerk in a hardware store. Starting at the foot of the ladder as a boy, by strict attention to business he won his way to the position of chief clerk. In the meantime he became deeply interested in public affairs, and on reaching his majority became an active worker in the organized ranks of the Republican party, advocating the selection of only competent men for public office to the end that a clean and efficient city government might be maintained and the highest interest of its citizens advanced. In 1902 he was made Chairman of the Republican City Committee, a post which he filled for three years. In 1902 and 1903 he was a member of the Common Council, and in 1904 a member and President of the Board of Aldermen. In 1905 he became Mayor of Pittsfield, and in December, 1907, was by virtue of annual re-elections still holding that honorable and important office.

In closing a long letter containing several family tables of his Hull ancestors he writes: "But few women with Hull blood in their veins have ever been seen carrying a dog in their arms for company. They have been provided with something far better. My good old grandmother, Isabella Reed Hull Silcox, gave birth to ten children and raised them all but one, and she lived to the good old age of ninety-five years. Nothing ever angered her like seeing a young married woman carrying a dog in her arms."

6975. LAWRENCE CAMERON HULL, JR., son of (3772) Lawrence Cameron Hull. The Brooklyn Eagle of Mar. 31, 1907, contains the following:

" Lawrence Cameron Hull, Jr., Poly Prep. '02, University of Michigan, '05, and now a student of the law school of the University, has just been awarded the Cecil Rhodes scholarship for Michigan. Of the eight young men who took the examinations last primary, Hull was the only one whom the Oxford examiners reported as having passed. Later, he appeared before the state committee, together with two other young men who had passed the Oxford examinations in previous years, and he was unanimously chosen for admission to Oxford next year.

Hull's career both in school and college has been an exceptionally brillant one. When he graduated from Poly Prep he was the head scholar of the school for the year. At Ann Harbor he won at entrance the Phillips scholarship prize, and he entered at the start of the sophomore class. During his college life he ranked high both as a student and as an athlete. Aside from his splendid record made in the classroom, he was an able debater, a convincing speaker, a leader in social and religious life of the college, and an unusally versatile man in outdoor sports. For two years he has been one of the most prominent men in the law school. While an undergraduate Hull joined the Delta Upsilon fraternity. Since he has been in the law school he has become a member of Phi Delta Phi, a legal organization of high standing. He is a member of the Toastmaster's Club and the Quadrangle Society. He is president of the Y. M. C. A. of the University. Last year he was student manager of the Michigan football eleven."

THE RICHARD HULL BRANCH

Descendants of Richard Hull

1. RICHARD HULL, December 3, 1599—August 21, 1662 ,colonist, free planter and progenitor of a prominent New Haven branch of the Hull Clan in America, was a native of Derbyshire, England. The exact date of his arrival in New England has not been ascertained. He was made a freeman of Massachusetts Bay Colony at Dorchester in 1634, and a few months later was at Roxbury. In 1636 he sold his dwelling house at Roxbury to one Philip Sherman and removed to Boston. In 1639 he was at New Haven and there ended his wanderings, becoming one of that settlement's recognized founders and permanent citizens. The ancient records show that on joining the New Haven Company he promptly signed the "Fundamental Agreement," was received into the church and became thereby a full fledged member of the select body which constituted the initial General Court, and was soon busied in making history. On the 29th of October, 1639, this General Court formally organized the government of the "New Haven Plantation," by electing from their number a Chief Magistrate, four Assistant Magistrates, a Marshal, a Notary, and several other officers. At the same time an act was passed providing "That church members only shall be free burgesses, and they only shall choose among themselves magistrates and officers to have the power of transacting all public civil affairs of this plantation, and making and repealing laws"; also, "that there shall be a renewing or change of all officers every year at a General Court, to be held for this Plantation the last week in October." It is a matter of record that at this early date the residence of Richard Hull was on Chapel Street, that he was assigned a prominent sitting in the new church, and that his family consisted of four persons. The reports of a session of the General Court held in 1649, show that on one occasion that year, when Richard Hull was serving as "Master of the Watch," two sentries who had disobeyed his orders and grossly neglected duty, "were ordered whipped." At another session of the court, held the same year, a record is made showing that "Richard Hull, because his son Jeremiah wanted a worm and a scourer," (at an inspection of the train band), "was fined twelve cents." An inventory of the personal estate of Richard Hull was presented Jan. 6, 1662, showing that he had died possessed of goods and chattles valued at One Hundred Pounds, eighteen shilling and four pence. At the same time his will was filed. The latter reads as follows:

I, RICHARD HULL, of New Haven, in New England planta'n: being sick and weak in body, but through the mercy of God at present of perfect mind and memory, and having a desire to settle and dispose of ye small estate wherewith yt hath pleased God to bless me, do make and declare my last will and testament, in manner and form following.

In the first place, I commit my soule into ye hands of Jesus Christ, whoe hath redeemed it by his precious blood, and through whome only I hope for eternal life, & my body I commit to the earth to be decently buried accordingto the discretion of my executor, knowing yt my Redeemer liveth whoe will rays up the same at the last day, and as for my outward estate my mind is & I doe dispose of the same as followeth:

Imprimus. I give unto my oldest sonne Jeremy Hull (whom I make my executor) the house I now live in and home lot with ye barne & appurtenances and all other land & meadow lying and being in this towne & plantation of New Haven, except such part and parcel as I shall otherwise dispose of by this my will, hee paying out of ye sd. house, home lot & premises ye sume of twenty pounds, current pay toward ye raysing of such legacies as I shall give by this my will.

Item. I give unto my sonne John Hull the sume of ten pounds in full of his part.

Item. I give to my daughter Hannah Hull the sum of fforty pounds, the greater part of which sume I will shall bee payd out of my household goods and movables and it is my mind ye sd. legacies of ten pounds & fforty pounds be paid within the time of twelve months after my decease or sooner if it can be raised.

Item. I give and bequeath to my son-in-law John Jaxon & my daughter Mary his wife, one piece or parcell of meadow which I bought of Timothy Nash, lying and beeing on the east side near the ferry and all my upland, situate lying and being at Oyster Point, and also two acres more of upland in the Yorkshire quarter, to have, possess and enjoy all the upland and meadow to him my said son-in-law Jno. Jaxon, his wife & heyres and assigns for ever from and immediately after my decease.

Item. I give the sum of five pounds to be paid to the deacons of the church at New Haven aforesaid for the use of the poore of the said church, within one year or sooner as aforesaid.

Item. It is my mind and will yt if my estate should not amount to the payment of the said several legacies bequeathed as aforesaid by this my will, that then there be a proportionable abatement in each legacy, with due respect and consideration to my sonne Jeremy unto whom I intend to give full value of thirty pounds and leave estate out of the house and home lott and my other land bequeathed to him, excepting as is before excepted.

Item. It is my will that my executor in the first place see that all my just depts be fully payd and satisfied and funeral expences discharged. And in witness that this is my last will and testament, I have hereunto set my hand and seal this 21st day of August, 1662.

(Signed) RICHARD HULL.

Signed sealed and delivered ye day and year before mentioned as the testators last will and testament, in presence of

MATTHEW GILBERT,
WM. JONES.

2. JEREMIAH HULL, ——1700, of New Haven, Conn., oldest son of (1) Richard Hull, colonist, was married May 6, 1658, to Hannah Baldwin of Milford, Conn., daughter of Joseph Baldwin and his wife Hannah. He was a member of the Train Band of New Haven in 1649, and must have been at that time not less than 16 years of age. He is named executor of his father's estate in will executed August 21, 1662. He does not appear to have taken a very active part in either the political or religious affairs of New Haven, and the next item of interest relating to him, found in the ancient records, is a copy of his will executed June 10, 1700, three days previous to the testators deaths. This will reads in part as follows:

In the name of God—Amen. I, Jeremiah Hull of New Haven, being weak and sick of body, but of sound and perfect mind and memory, praise is therefore given to Almighty God, do make this my last will and testament in manner and form following, that is to say, ... such temporal estate as it hath pleased Almighty God to bestow upon me, I give and dispose of as follows:

Item. I will that my just debts and funeral charges shall be paid and discharged.

Item. I give unto my son John forty eight acres of land, be it more or lesse, part of the lot Lieing in Westfield, and the remainder there of lieing in the Wilderness. Thirteen acres of land, be it more or less, lieing in the oister point quarter, formerly Nathen Hevtons land. My third division lot, being 24 acres, Lying on the west side of the town, adjoining Mr. Harrimans lot, to him his heirs and assigns forever.

Item. I give to my son Joseph Hull, my Dwelling House, Barn and ye lott on which they stand. . . Seven acres and three quarters of land lying in ye Yorkshire quarter. . . Four acres of land at the oyster point, in Suberb quarter. . . Eight acres and a half of land in the neck, lieing in the great part of 1st neck. . . Two acres of land in the bushby lott. . . Ten acres and a half in the 2ond quarter adjacent to ye Todds corn mill. . . Two acres and a half of meadow lieing on ye east side of ye east river by John Brooketts meadow. . . One acre of land lieing in ye Yorkshire quarter, by the west lane, to have and to hold, to him, my son Joseph, his heirs and assigns forever.

And as to my personal estate of what kind or quality whatsoever, my will is that my son Joseph shall have ye use of ye same on condition that he doe comfortably and honorably maintain my present wife During her natural life, and be at charges of her honorable burial at her decease, in case my sd son survives her; and then my will is that what personal estate remains shall be thus distributed viz: twenty shillings apiece to be paid to my two daughters Mary Hotchkiss and Sarah Chidsey, and the remainder to be equally divided between my sd son Joseph and my daughter Martha Hull. and I doe desire and appoint my son Joseph Hull to be full and sole executor of this my last will and testament, and I do hereby revoke, disannul and make void all former wills and testaments by me heretofore made.

In witness whereof I, the said Jeremiah Hull, hereunto set my hand and seal this tenth day of June, Anno domini one thousand seven hundred, 1700.

It is noticed that in above will that Jeremiah Hull the testator uses the term "my present wife," which creates the impression that his first wife Hannah Baldwin had probably died several years before the drawing of that instrument and that he had married again. That three of his children (Jeremiah, Hannah and Elizabeth) are not mentioned in this will would seem to indicate that they had died previous to the date of its execution, without issue.

13. Martha Hull, b. 1677.

3. Dr. John Hull, 1640-1711, of New Haven, Stratford, Killingworth, Derby and Wallingford, all in Connecticut, son of (1) Richard Hull, was a planter and physician. He was thrice married. No records have been discovered giving the maiden name of his first wife. On October 19, 1671, he was married to his second wife Mary Jones, and on May 13, 1675, to his third wife Rebecca Turner.

In business affairs Dr. Hull was clear headed, energetic and successful, and the records make it plain that he possessed the confidence and esteem of the several communities in which he lived, as well as of men of prominence and with whom he was associated. He is named as one of the founders of Derby, and took a leading part in the building of the first meeting house and parsonage erected there. He also built dwellings for his sons, and a corn and flour mill at Wallingford. The minutes of the General Court of Connecticut contain the following entries relative to his service in King Philips War:—

Oct. 14, 1675—This Court desires Major Gould to send up Mr. Joseph Harvy or John Hull to be chirurgeons [surgeons] to the Army, which of them he judgeth most suitable.

May 11, 1675—This Court alloweth the chirurgeons . . Mr. John Hull . . fourteen shillings a week for services.

Feb. 18, 1676—Resolved that orders be sent to . . John Hull . . to hasten to go forth with the Army.

June 21, 1676—Ordered that Mr. John Hull be called to Hartford to looke after the wounded men at Hartford and Watertown forthwith.

Dr. Hull, in his several changes of place of residence, retained his holdings in the places he removed from and acquired additional land in the new towns into which he moved. He held the office of selectman in the town of Derby for at least four years, and represented the town of Wallingford for one or more terms in the General Assembly. Several years before his death he transferred to his children a considerable portion of his real estate, including bounty land awarded him for valuable service rendered in the King Philip War.

390. LIEUTENANT JOSEPH HULL, 1750-1825, farmer, Revolutionary war soldier and mariner, son of (182) Capt. Joseph and Eliza Clark Hull, was married first to Sarah Bennett, daughter of David Bennett. His second wife was Widow Nichols, mother of Rev. Charles Nichols; and his third wife Lucy Smith, 1754-1817, widow of the elder Joseph Wheeler. The following is condensed from an interesting sketch of his life given in Mrs. Puella Follett Hull Mason's book.

Lieut. Joseph Hull was born at Derby, Conn. He entered the Continental Army and in 1776 was commissioned a Lieutenant of Artillery. Before the end of that year he was captured by the British when Fort Washington, at the mouth of the Hudson, fell into their hands, and was held a prisioner until 1778. In 1779 he commanded a flotilla on Long Island Sound, which consisted of several old whale boats that had been fitted out with the purpose of annoying the enemy as opportunity offered. With one of his old boats Hull surprised, boarded and captured an armed British schooner which lay at anchor in the sound under guard, and forcing her defenders below, fastened down the hatches, hoisted her anchors and sailed her in triumph to Derby.

After the war he was engaged for a considerable period in whale fishing on the sound in open boats, and was noted for his skill and presence of mind.

391. GENERAL WILLIAM HULL, 1753-1825, son of (182) Capt. Joseph and Eliza Clark Hull, was married in 1781 to Sarah Fuller, 1759-1826, daughter of Judge Abraham Fuller and his wife Sarah Dyer of Newton, Mass. He was born at Derby, Conn., and graduated at Yale in 1772. He then began the study of divinity, but at the end of one year entered the Litchfield, Conn., Law School, and in 1775 was admitted to the bar. But before he had fairly begun the practice of his chosen profession, news of the clash of arms at Lexington, caused him to enter the military service of his country. The young men of his home town of Derby were speedily organized into a military company of which he was chosen and commissioned Captain, and he was soon in the field. At the beginning of his military career he was recognized as an able and courageous officer. On Jan. 1, 1776, he was promoted to a captaincy in the 19th Continental Infantry. Just one year later he became Major of the 8th Massachusetts and on Aug. 12, 1779, was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel of the 3rd Massachusetts—both regiments of the line.

He led an attack of 300 volunteers at Saratoga, commanded the right column of General Wayne's assaulting forces at the capture of Stony Point, and planned and took a leading part in the execution of the movement against Morrisania, for which Congress tendered him a vote of thanks. He early gained, and held throughout his seven years service in the war of the Revolution, the confidence and respect of his superior officers. General Wayne regarded him as a born leader who could be trusted in any emergency. General Steuben, under whom he served as Assistant Inspector of of the Army, bore testimony to his superior ability as an organizer; and the Commander-in-Chief declared that he was an officer of great merit whose services had been honorable to himself and profitable to his country. When the army was disbanded at the close of the war he was selected by Washington as Lieutenant-Colonel of the one regiment retained in the service and stationed at West Point. In 1786 he retired from the army and engaged in the practice of law at Newton, Mass. In January, 1787, he acted as volunteer Aid to General Lincoln in the suppression of Shay's Rebellion. In 1793 he was appointed a Commissioner to make a treaty with the Indians in the Northwest. In 1798 he visited England and France, and witnessed in Paris many of the thrilling scenes of the First Revolution. On his return to New England he was appointed by the Governor of Massachusetts, Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, for Middlesex County, and was elected and commissioned Major-General of the Third Division of the Massachusetts militia. He was a Senator in the State Legislator from 1798 to 1805, when he resigned, to accept from President Thomas Jefferson the appointment of Governor of Michigan Territory, and moved with his family to Detroit.

In February, 1812, war with England being imminent, and several tribes of frontier Indians showing unmistakable signs of hostility, three hundred men of the 4th U. S. Infantry, with about twelve hundred volunteers, most of whom were citizens of Ohio, were ordered to Detroit, then the most advanced western post. Governor Hull being at the time in Washington, was offered the command of these troops, which he declined. The officer then designated being taken sick, he finally consented to accept the appointment with the sole object of protecting the inhabitants of the Territory over which he presided, against the Indians. Governor Hull onened a military road through the wilderness two hundred miles in extent, over which he marched from Ohio to Detroit. Upon his arrival there he was ordered to invade Canada with a force wholly inadequate and absolutely unsupported by any naval power or land force whatever, notwithstanding the fact that the government had promised him all necessary assistance. The campaign was a failure, Detroit was lost, and for political reasons solely Governor Hull was deliberately made the scapegoat of those responsible for the disaster. The tactics pursued at his trial and conviction were not unlike those adopted in the recent trial in France of Major Dreyfus. It was not until 1824, ten years afterward, that General Hull was able to procure from the War Department, copies of documents necessary for his vindication. For a full account of which see "Memiors of the Campaign of 1812," which he published in 1825; "The Military and Civil Life of General Hull," by his daughter Mrs. Campbell, and his grandson James F. Clarke, published in 1848; and the pamphlet entitled "General William Hull of the Revolution and the Capitulation of Detroit," compiled by General Joseph Wheeler, his grandson, and sent out by the Hull Family Association in 1906. The unbiased reader of these works and of the "Report of the Trial of General Hull," published by Eastburn, Kirk & Co., in 1814, must reach the inevitable conclusion that if General Hull was guilty of cowardice in the surrender of Detroit in 1812, then Washington was guilty of cowardice in the surrender of Fort Necessity in 1754, and General Lee was guilty of cowardice in the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia at Appomattox in 1865, all of which are equally preposterous.

General Hull passed his last days on the farm of his wife near Newton, Mass. The "Memoirs of the Campaign of 1812," which he gave to the press in 1824, reversed to a great extent the unjust judgment created and so long held against him. In 1825 a public dinner, intended to emphasize that fact, was given him by the leading men of Boston. The same year he visited his native town, Derby, where he was received with marked attention, but the fatigues of the journey, after the long strain to which he had been subjected, brought on an illness which proved fatal, and speedily ended his remarkable and honorable career.

782. COMMODORE ISAAC HULL, 1773-1843, of Derby, Conn., son of (390) Lieut. Joseph and Sarah Bennett Hull, was married in 1813, to Anna M. Hart of Saybrook, Conn. At an early age he exhibited a great fondness for everything connected with the sea, and at the age of 14 entered the merchant service as a cabin boy and before he was 21 commanded a ship that sailed to the West Indies. Entering the U. S. Navy as a Lieutenant in 1798, he served under Commodore Nicholson. In 1800, while first Lieutenant of the Frigate Constitution, he led a party which "cut out a French letter-of-marque" from under the guns of a battery at Port Platte, St. Domingo. In the war with Tripoli, 1802-5, he won lasting renown in command of the schooner Nautilus and the brig Argus, serving in the squadrons of Prebble and Baron, and greatly aiding General Eaton in the capture of Derne. In 1806 he was made Captain. In 1812, being in command of the frigate Constitution, he was met in mid ocean by a British squadron of seven armed vessels, which chased him for three days, but which by superior seamanship he succeeded in eluding to the chargin and amazement of his pursurers.

The public notice taken of this affair, and the praises bestowed on Captain Hull, induced him on reaching Boston, to insert the following card in the books of the Exchange Coffee House.

> "Captain Hull, finding that his friends in Boston are correctly informed of his situation when chased by the British squadron off New York, and that they are good enough to give him more credit for having escaped it than he ought to claim, takes this opportunity of requesting them to transfer their good wishes to Lieutenant Morris and the other brave officers, and the crew under his command, for the very great exertions and prompt attention to his orders, while the enemy were in chase. Captain Hull has great pleasure in saying that notwithstanding the length of the chase, and the officers and crew being deprived of sleep, and allowed but little refreshment during the time, not a murmur was heard to escape them."

On August 19, 1812, about one month after the escape above mentioned, Capt. Hull, with the same vessel, the same officers, and the same crew, fell in with a large frigate rated at 38 guns but carrying 50, which proved to be his Majesty's ship Guerriere, commanded by Capt. J. R. Dacres. What happened on this occasion can best be told in Capt. Hull's own words:

United States frigate Constitution, off Boston Light, Aug. 30, 1812.

Sir:—I have the honor to inform you, that on the 19th instant, at two P. M., being in Latitude 41, 42, and longitude 55, 48, with the Constitution under my command, a sail was discovered from the mast-head bearing E. by S. or E. S. E., but at such a distance we could not tell what she was. All sail was instantly made in chase, and soon found we came up with her. At three P. M. could plainly see that she was a ship on the starboard tack, under easy sail, close on a wind; At half past three P. M. made her out to be a frigate; continued the chase until we were within about three miles, then I ordered the light sails to be taken in, the courses hauled up, and the ship cleared for action. At this time the chase had backed his main-top-sail, waiting for us to come down. As soon as the Constitution was ready for action I bore down with the intention to bring him to close action immediately, but upon our coming within gun shot, she gave us a broadside, and filled away, and wore, giving us a broadside on the other tack, but without effect; her shot falling short. She continued wearing and maneuvering for about three quarters of an hour, to get a raking position, but finding she could not, she bore up and ran under her top-sails and jib, with the wind on the quarter. I immediately made sail to bring the ship up with her, and five minutes before six P. M., being along side within half pistol shot, we commenced a heavy fire from all our guns, double shotted with round and grape, and so well directed were they and so warmly kept up, that in 15 minutes his mizzen mast went by the board, and his main yard in the slings, and the hull rigging and sails very much torn to pieces. The fire was kept up with equal warmth for fifteen minutes longer, when his main-mast and fore-mast went, taking with them every spar excepting the bowsprit. On seeing this we ceased firing, so that in thirty minutes after we got fairly alongside the enemy she surrendered, and had not a spar standing, and her hull below and above water so shattered, that a few more broadsides must have carried her down.

After informing you that so fine a ship as the Guerriere, commanded by an able and experienced officer, had been totally dismasted, and otherwise cut to pieces so as not to make her worth towing into port, in the short space of thirty minutes, you can have no doubt of the gallantry and good conduct of the officers and ships company I have the honor to command. It only remains with me to assure you, that they all fought with great bravery; and it gives me great pleasure to say, that from the smallest boy in the ship to the oldest seaman, not a look of fear was seen. They all went into action giving three cheers and requesting to be laid close alongside the enemy.

Enclosed I have the honor to send you a list of the killed and wounded on board the Constitution, and a report of the damages she has sustained; also a list of the killed and wounded on board the enemy, with his quarter bill, &c.

I have the honor to be with great respect, Sir, your obedient servant,

ISAAC HULL.

To Honorable Paul Hamilton, Esq.

790. Captain Abraham Fuller Hull, U. S. A., 1786-1814, only son of (391) General William and Sarah Fuller Hull, graduated from Harvard in 1805, and at the outbreak of the second war with England secured a captaincy in the 23rd Infantry—his commission bearing the date April 14, 1812. He was detailed to serve on the staff of his father, marched with the army from Dayton to Detroit, and was present at the surrender. On April 15, 1813, he was transferred to the 9th Infantry, which in the campaign of 1814 formed a part of General Winfield Scott's brigade, and was killed in the battle of Lundys Lane. For years his grave was marked by a neat wooden slab bearing this inscription:

"Erected by his brother officers to mark the spot where Capt. Hull, U. S. Army fell in the memorable action of Lundys Lane, 25 July, 1814, gallantly leading his men to the charge."

This marker was not allowed to decay before a marble slab was substituted with suitable ceremonies, and this in turn has been removed to give place to a plain but massive granite monument. The Buffalo Enquirer of Sept. 28, 1907, contains the following:

"In the beautiful little cemetery at Drummondville, which is a part of the memorable battlefield of Lundys Lane, about a mile and a half up the hill from the west of Niagara Falls, Ont., a huge block of granite was unveiled at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon by members of the Niagara Frontier Landmarks Association in the presence of many patriotic Americans and more Canadians. . . . . There is nothing imposing in the monument that was unveiled. It is not a shaft of dazzling white, with magnificent settings at the base, but just a block of rough granite, typical of the character and roughness of the American soldiers of the War of 1812, who faced twice their number of British enemies and covered themselves with imperishable fame and victory at a cost of much life and blood. The block was erected to perpetuate the spot where fell Capt. Abraham F. Hull and nine soldiers of the 9th Regiment U. S. Infantry, in the battle of Lundys Lane on July 25, 1814. Capt. Hull's body was buried a few rods from where he fell in the thickest of the fray. . . . Secretary Emerson's address was listened to with deep interest by those present. He spoke as follows: . . . . . 'In these graves are the remains of ten men who on the morning of the 25th of July 1814 went forth in the fullness of their manhood and in the evening were cut down. One of these was Capt. Abraham Fuller Hull of the 9th Regiment Infantry, United States Army. . . . . He was killed on the night of July 25, 1814, and and the following letter written by a British officer gives us many particulars which may be of interest today:

" 'Chillicothe, Ohio, Oct. 7, 1814.

" 'Sir:—Having been informed since I was brought to this place that you are a relative of the late Capt. Hull, who fell on the 25th of July last, at the Battle of Lundys Lane, and that you remain in anxious suspense to know whether he fell on the field or was made prisoner. I was in the action and purely to relieve yourself and other relatives of that gallant officer, take the liberty to inform you that early in the morning after the battle the body of an officer lying on the field of action was shown to me which I was told was the body of Capt. Abraham Hull, and that his commission had been found upon his body. He was buried in the Church yard at Lundys Lane, under an oak tree, within a few rods of where he was killed. Capt. Hull fell in a charge just at the conclusion of the action. He was bayoneted through the body and laid among the rails of the fence of Lundys Lane, which had been thrown down during the engagement to enable the troops to act. His body was laid in a line with five American soldiers who also lay among the rails and who likewise were killed by the bayonet. There was not an officer or a soldier in the American Army who fell on the field in front of them.' "

791. Ann Binney Hull, 1787-1847, daughter of (391) General William and Sarah Fuller Hull, was married in 1808, to Capt. Harris Hampden Hickman of U. S. A., whose military record reads as follows: "Commissioned Capt. 19th Infantry Mar. 12, 1812; transferred to 17th Infantry May 12, 1814; honorably discharged June 15, 1815.

1591. General Joseph Wheeler, 1836-1906, soldier, statesman and author, son of Joseph and (794) Julia Knox Hull Wheeler, was married Feb. 8, 1866, to Donella Jones Sherwood, 1841-1896. The following history of his remarkable career was prepared by his nephew and ardent admirer, Sterling S. Smith, Esq.

Wheeler, Joseph, soldier and statesman, youngest son of Joseph and Julia Hull Wheeler, was born at Augusta, Ga., Sept. 10, 1836. At the age of twenty-six years he had become a distinguished army corps commander, won a world-wide fame as a brilliant and successful general of cavalry and had been honored by a resolution enacted by the Confederate Congress thanking him for gallantry and skill in battle.

A work by Rev. E. S. Burford and Colonel William S. Hawkins, published in 1865, says:

"General Wheeler bore a prominent part in the great battles of Shiloh, Farmington, the fights around Corinth, the battles of Perryville, Murfreesboro, Tullahoma and Chickamauga, the battles preceding and incident to the seige of Knoxville, the battles of Ringgold, Rocky Face, Dalton, Resaca, Adairsville, Cassville, New Hope, Dallas, Pickett's Mill, the various battles around Kenesaw Mountain, the battles of Peach Tree Creek, Chattahoochee and Decatur, the battles around Atlanta, the siege of Savannah and the battles of Averysboro and Bentonville. Besides engaging in these great battles, and being under fire in over 400 skirmishes, General Wheeler has commanded in more than a hundred battles, many of which, considering the numbers engaged, were the most severe recorded in the history of cavalry. Always in the front of the battle, he was wounded three times, sixteen horses were shot from under him, eight of his staff officers were killed and thirty-two wounded. From 1861 to the surrender in 1865, rising from lieutenant to lieutenant-general, brave, skillful, enduring and full of energy and dash, it was to him four years of work, adventure, romance and heroism."

This remarkable military career, followed by ten elections to the United States Congress and his able speeches and valuable service, during nearly twenty years in that body, his recent gallant services as Major-General in the Army of the United States, commanding at the battle of Las Guasimas, the first victory in the Cuban War, and his eminent and brave conduct in the battles of San Juan and Santiago, and later his service in the battles and skirmishes of the campaign in the Philippines against Aguinaldo in 1899, mark him as a unique and interesting character in American history.

Wheeler Ancestors

His first Wheeler ancestor in America was Moses Wheeler, b. Kent Co., England, January 5, 1598.

This Moses Wheeler and Richard Hull, b. 1599, John Fuller, b. 1611, Nicholas Smith, b. 1631, Thomas Dyer, b. 1612, Peter Johnson, b. 1608, Edward Wooster, b. about 1621, Edward Riggs, b. 1585, John Jackson, b. 1602, Edward Jackson, b. 1604, Francis Nichols, b. 1595, Edward Biscoe, b. 1595, Thomas White, b. 1599, William Peck, b. 1601, Thomas Clark, b. 1599, William Parker, b. 1618, Gregory Baxter, died 1659, Thomas Battlestone, died 1640, Andrew Ward, b. about 1600, and John Newdigate, b. 1580, were all American ancestors of Gen. Wheeler, and were among the earliest and most substantial settlers of Boston, Newton and Roxbury, Mass., and of Stratford, New Haven, Derby, Fairfield and Wallingford, Conn., having settled in those localities prior to the year 1640.

The ancestry of some of these earlier settlers had preserved family records for several centuries. John Newdigate claimed through his great-grandfather, Sir William Newdigate, who was born 1485, to be the seventeenth in descent from Sir John de Newdigate, time of King John. The mother of John Newdigate was Joanne, daughter of Gualther de Hoo, of Suffolk, England, who died in 1588 and was a large landholder and of a famous English family. He claimed descent in thirteenth generation from Sir Robert Hoo, knt., who died 1000. (See Newdigate and Hoo family charts.) This Gualther de Hoo was seventh in descent from Sir Robert Hoo, who married Beatrix, daughter of Alexander, Earl of Andeville, in Normandy, and died 1310.

Lord Thomas Hoo, who died 1455, was fifth in descent from this same Robert Hoo. His daughter Anne, born 1425, married Goeffrey Boleyn, and their great granddaughter, Anne Boleyn, married Henry VIII. and was the mother of Queen Elizabeth.

This Geoffrey Boleyn was also the ancestor of Lord Nelson, Viscount of the Nile; Lord Hundson, the Earl of Kimberley, and Lord Wodehouse.

Andrew Ward claimed descent through many generations from Osbert de Warde. His wife, Esther Sherman, was great-great-granddaughter of Thomas Sherman, who died in 1564. Andrew Ward's father, Sir Richard Ward, married Annie, daughter of Sir Richard Gunville, and through them the Ward family claimed descent from Sir Richard Capel, Sir John Hare, Lord Neville, Sir John Arundel and Sir William Lumley, all of whose families have very ancient records.

After attending local schools and the Episcopal Academy at Cheshire, Conn., Joseph Wheeler entered the Military Academy at West Point, where he was graduated in 1859. He was promoted to Lieutenant, United States Army, in the cavalry arm of the service, and his first duty was at the school for cavalry practice at Carlisle, Pa. He then served in Kansas and New Mexico in several scouting expeditions against the Indians. On February 27, 1861, he resigned his commission as an officer of the United States Army, and on April 3 was appointed a First Lieutenant of Artillery in the Confederate Army.

Distinguished at Shiloh

Notwithstanding his youth, being but twenty-four years of age, and his still more youthful appearance, he soon earned the confidence and respect of his commanders and on September 4, 1861, was commissioned Colonel of the Nineteenth Alabama Infantry. He commanded a brigade at the battle of Shiloh, April 6 and 7, 1862, and was pre-eminently distinguished from the first to the close of the battle. General Bragg complimented his skillful manoeuvres and determined gallantry, which very largely contributed to the capture of Major-General Prentiss and his division together with much of the division of Major-General Wallace. General Bragg, in his official report, spoke of "the noble service of Colonel Joseph Wheeler" and by his order Wheeler was designated to command the rear guard when at the close of the second day's fighting, the Confederate Army retired from the field.

This bloody battle was the commencement of the very brilliant career of this brave young officer.

The work before referred to by the Rev. E. S. Burford and Colonel Hawkins closes with the following summary of General Wheeler's military operations:

"General Wheeler was often called upon to engage forces many times his superior, in order to retard the enemy while covering retreats, or to create a diversion while important movements were carried on in other localities. Operations of this character, which are the most difficult the service presents, were conducted by General Wheeler with such skill that he invariably accomplished the desired object. As a commander of the cavalry of an army, General Wheeler has been more successful than any other cavalry officer in the Confederate armies. In no instance has any army met a reverse or been otherwise than successful in its undertakings while he commanded the cavalry of that army. The only disasters which were visited upon the Army of Tennessee occurred during his absence upon other duty.

"When General Grant assaulted General Bragg on Missionary Ridge, Wheeler was with Longstreet at Knoxville, but he reached our army in time to cover the retreat, check the advance of Grant's victorious columns and engage in our victory at Ringgold Gap. When Atlanta was wrested from us, Wheeler was raiding in Tennessee, and during Hood's disasterous campaign in Tennessee, Wheeler was fighting Sherman in Georgia. At Perryville, Murfreesboro, Chickamauga and the movements and fighting incident thereto, and during Johnston's brilliant battles from Dalton to Atlanta, General Wheeler commanded the cavalry, and by his skillful management contributed much to the success of our army.

"General Wheeler's raid in the rear of the Federal army incident to the battle of Murfreesboro, his immediate crossing the Tennessee river after the battle of Chickamauga, in the face of superior numbers of the enemy, under the famous Federal General George Crook; his attack and defeat of that officer, and the capture and destruction of Rosencranz's wagon trains of more than a thousand wagons loaded with ordance and commissary supplies, and the capture and destruction of his depots of military stores were marvellous feats of chivalric daring and skill."

And in brillancy, boldness, skill and energy, few military achievements equal General Wheeler's great victory of July, 1864, in which he utterly routed and defeated a column of Sherman's cavalry, ten thousand strong, commanded by Generals McCook, Stoneham and Garrard. The official reports of Generals Chalmers, Withers and Bragg speak in the highest terms of his gallantry at Shiloh. Polk's, Kirby Smith's and Bragg's reports speak of his very distinguished services at Perryville and the Kentucky campaign; Bragg and Jefferson Davis of his services at Murfreesboro and Chickamauga; Generals Johnston, Hood and Hardee and President Davis of his operations in the many battles in the Georgia and Carolina campaigns.

General Basil W. Duke's "History of Morgan's Command," pages 344 and 345, says:

"General Wheeler possessed, in an eminent degree, all the attributes of a gentleman. He was as brave as a Paladin, just, high-toned and exceedingly courteous, full of fire and enterprise, vigilant and energetic, and thoroughly instructed in all the duties of his profession and perfectly conversant with the elaborate details of organization and military business."

General Duke also speaks of "his eminent fitness as the commander of a large body of cavalry, permanently attached to the army."

And General Robert E. Lee, in speaking of the most-noted commanders, said:

"The two ablest cavalry officers which the war developed were General Stuart, of Virginia, and General Joseph Wheeler, of the Army of Tennessee."

In 1866 General Wheeler married Damella, a daughter of Richard Jones, whose father, Harrison Jones, was wounded, losing a leg at the battle of Guilford Court House. Her mother was a daughter of Governor Early of Georgia, who comes from an Irish family of very distinguished lineage.

Ebenezer Adams, Richard Cocke, Matthew Edloe and Francis Smith, all of whom were among the first settlers in Virginia, were also here ancestors. Mrs. Wheeler died May 19, 1896, leaving two sons, Joseph and Thomas, and four daughters, Lucy, Annie Early, Julia Knox and Carrie Payton. Thomas served as mid-shipman, U. S. N., in the Santiago Squadron during the Cuban War, and was drowned September 7, 1898, in an attempt to rescue a brother officer. Joseph, a graduate of West Point, was distinguished in the battles of San Juan and Santiago in the Spanish War, and afterward as a Major he won distinction in twenty battles or minor engagements in the Philippines, and is now Captain of artillery. Annie Early was a volunteer with Clara Barton, and distinguished herself by organizing, equipping and superintending the Yacht Club Hospital at Santiago, Cuba, during the months of July, August and September, 1898.

General Wheeler's career since 1865 is briefly told in the register of the graduates of the military academy by Major General Cullum, U. S. Army, edition of 1900, p. 114:

"Civil History—Lawyer and planter; member of 47th, 49th, 50th, 51st, 52d, 53d, 54th, 55th and 56th Congress (senior member of Congress on the Democratic side of the House). Also commanded expedition to Sulipa, Nov. 29, and expedition to San Ignacia and Moriones, Dec. 3 to 6. By direction of the President, made an inspection of the island of Guam, Feb. 8 to 12, 1900.

BRIGADIER-GENERAL UNITED STATES REGULAR ARMY, JUNE 16, 1900

In command of the Department of the Lakes, at Chicago, Ill., from June 18, 1900.

General William T. Sherman was very emphatic in commending General Wheeler's high qualities, and often repeated:

"In the event of war with a foreign country, General Joe Wheeler is the man to command the cavalry of our army."

President Roosevelt is warm in praise of General Wheeler's services in Cuba, and gives him credit for much of our success in that campaign, and especially for his bold and determined stand against retreating from SanJuan Hill.

In his history of the Rough Rider Regiment which he commanded in Cuba, President Roosevelt, in speaking of the events on the night of the battle of San Juan, July 1, 1898, says:

"A very few words from General Wheeler reassured us about retiring. He had been through too much heavy fighting in the Civil War to regard the present fight as very serious, and he told us not to be under any apprehension, for he had sent word that there was no need whatever of retiring, and was sure we could stay where we were until the chance came to advance. He was second in command, and to him more than any other man was due the prompt abandonment of the plan to fall back—a proposal which, if adopted, would have meant shame and disaster.

"Shortly afterward General Wheeler sent us orders to intrench."

In speaking of the fight of Las Guasimas, in which General Wheeler commanded, President Roosevelt said:

"General Wheeler was in command ashore; he was told to get in touch with the enemy, and, being a man with the 'fighting edge,' this meant that he was certain to fight. No General who was worth his salt would have failed to fight under such conditions; the only question would be as to how the fight was to be made. War means fighting; and the soldier's cardinal sin is timidity.

"General Wheeler remained throughout steadfast against any retreat from before Santiago."

General Shafter's order to the Santiago army, dated July 4, 1898, upon the battle of San Juan, says:

"To Major-General Wheeler, of the Cavalry Division, was probably given the most difficult task, that of crossing a stream under fire, and deploying under the enemy's rifle pits. These he almost immediately charged and carried in a most gallant manner, driving the enemy from his strong positions to the shelter of the stronger works in the rear. This was only accomplished by the most persevering and arduous efforts, officers and men exposing themselves to the deadly fire of the Spanish troops."

General Kent's Official Report of San Juan battle says:

"I desire, in conclusion, to express my gratitude to Major-General Wheeler for his courteous conduct to me, and through me to my division, under the trying circumstances enumerated. Though ill and suffering, General Wheeler was so perfectly at home under fire that he inspired all of us with courage."

General Wheeler was retired from the United States Army on account of age September, 1900. He visited Europe in 1902 and was enthusiastically received in England and France; witnessed the maneuvers of the French Army, and also visited the battlefield of Waterloo. On his return to this country he was entertained by posts of the Grand Army of the Republic from Maine to California.

He was stricken with pleuro-pneumonia January 18th, 1906, at the home of his sister Lucy, Mrs. Sterling Smith, in Brooklyn, N. Y., and died there January 25th. Sunday, January 29th, his remains were escorted by United States troops and New York State Cavalry and Infantry troops from Brooklyn to St. Thomas' Church, Fifth Avenue, New York, where services were held, and from there to Pennsylvania R. R. Station. A second military funeral was held at St. John's Church, Washington, the next day, at which President Roosevelt was present; and the escort from there to Arlington Cemetery was composed of United States troops and a large delegation of Wheeler's Confederate Cavalry horses for which were furnished by the United States Government. There he was buried amidst the booming of cannon, surrounded by the veterans of the North and South, a united people, the bonds between which he did so much to cement.

A handsome monument has been erected at Arlington by his son Major Joseph Wheeler, U. S. Army, and his four daughters.

3502. COLONEL WALTER CLARK HULL, 1843-1864, son of (1751) William B. and Mary D. Clark Hull, entered the volunteer service in the Civil War as a private soldier, enlisting in the 37th N. Y. Infantry in May, 1861. In Nov., 1862, after having passed through the warrant grades of Corporal and Sergeant, he was commissioned 2nd Lieutenant, and served as such with credit to June 22, 1863, when his regiment, by reason of expiration of term, was mustered out of the service. Two months later he re-entered the army with the rank of Captain, having been commissioned to a vacancy in the famous Harris Light (2nd N. Y.) Cavalry. He was wounded in action at Hanover Court House May 28, 1864, but soon returned to duty and served with such ability and bravery that on Sept. 6, 1864, he was commissioned Major, and within a month had reached the grade of Colonel. The Annual Report of the Adjutant-General of the State of New York for 1893, contains the following remarkable record:

"Hull, Walter C. . . . ; mustered as major Sept. 14, 1864; as lieutenant colonel, November 1, 1864; as colonel November 4, 1864; killed November 12, 1864, at Cedar Creek, Va."

Richmond Pearson Hobson, son of Judge James M. Hobson and his wife Sarah Croom Pearson, a lineal descendant of Elder William Brewster of the Mayflower.

Richard Pearson Hobson was born in the state of Alabama. Before he was fifteen years of age he won out by competetive examination for appointment to the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. His graduation at the head of his class, carried with it the privilege of being sent to Paris by the government for a course in Naval Construction. His splendid daring in the blocking the harbor of Santiago in the Spanish-American War has given him a prominent place among naval heros of America. After the close of the war he was sent to superintend the re-building of the Spanish vessels captured by Dewey's fleet in the East. From this mission he returned with his eyesight impaired, and his request to be retired being refused by Congress, he resigned, with a parting message to the navy department that whenever it needed him he was ready to serve. He is now (1908) serving his fourth term in Congress as the representative of the Sixth District of Alabama.

NEW HAMPSHIRE HULLS

Effort has failed to connect the Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont Hulls with their colonist ancestors; indifference, unprocurable records, and the migratory tendencies of the clan are the cause of failure.

The following has been gathered by William Gould Hull, of Plymouth, N. H., but he has been unsuccessful in tracing his pedigree farther back. He is a member of the Town History Committee of Plymouth. He writes:

> "George Hull in Concord, N. H., in 1747; and taxed in 1757-1758, and perhaps for twenty years earlier as the tax lists have not been preserved. He removed to Plymouth, N. H., in 1765. On Feb. 13, 1765, George Hull of Concord, N. H., purchased one full right or share in Plymouth, which originally belonged to Meshach Wear, the grantee."
